LEAGUE LEADER INSISTS MANCHURIA CLASHES STOP

Burglars' Loot Small In Seven Attempts Special Measures Framed to Combat Entry Into Homes

Police Chief Maps Campaign to Round Up Housebreakers As City Has First Series of Robberies in Many Months; Place in Oak Bay Entered Two Nights in a Row; Begg Motor Company Burglarized and Cash Register Taken

Special measures for prevention of housebreaking were announced by Chief of Police Thomas Heatley this morning following a mild epidemic of burglaries over the Remembrance Day holiday.

Three homes and two places of business were entered between Tuesday night and this morning and although the burglars practically drew blank, the chief immediately planned steps to nip in the bud any sustained campaign by house robbers.

In Oak Bay premises were also busy one house being visited both Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

Places in the city were:

Begg Motor Company garage, Yates Street; empty cash register stolen, door of gas station office broken and place ransacked.

Dallas Road barbecue stand with thirty-five cents, cigarettes and pop stolen.

Home of Mrs. W. H. Warren, 3093 Harriet Road, between 3 and 9 o'clock yesterday, ransacked, but nothing taken.

Home of Chas. Shubert, 3040 Carroll Street, between 7 and 9 o'clock yesterday, drawers ransacked, but nothing missing.

Home of Mrs. E. Stewart, 3164 Balfour Avenue, between 1 and 10 o'clock yesterday, nothing taken. (Visited twice.)

J. Bowden, 3202 Beach Drive, was the greatest sufferer. On Tuesday night a prowler broke a window and entered, securing $20. Yesterday evening he revisited the place going in the same way, taking a string of pearls and other jewelry.

It was the first series of house robberies Victoria has had since last winter. The city has been remarkably free during the summer and fall.

Executive officers of the police force were called into consultation with the chief to-day to plan a campaign and forestall future occurrences of this nature. Housebreakings are usually more frequent in the winter time and special patrols for outlying districts are proposed to protect homes from burglars this winter.

Co-operation of householders will aid the police immeasurably, the chief pointed out. An open window is sometimes a direct invitation to a prowler contemplating robbery and when all doors and windows, or other means of access are firmly closed and locked, the thief is often deterred from his purpose.

CAN-HELP POLICE

"We intend to do everything in our power to protect homes of the city from this sort of thing and the general public can be of great assistance," he said.

"An immediate report of a robbery is sometimes of invaluable aid in tracing the culprit, who may still be in the district. If a suspicious character is seen in a neighborhood a theft may be prevented if his presence is reported."

The chief will give a radio talk on the subject shortly, setting out the "precautions which may be taken to prevent entries of this kind."

COUNCIL FIELD

NOW UP TO NINE

Ratepayers' Association

Opens Campaign With Meeting To-morrow Night

Two more candidates for aldermanic honors at the civic elections loomed to-day with an announcement by E. J. Wakeman that he would stand, and information that W. D. Todd, a former candidate, would seek election.

This brings the total to nine for the five vacant council seats and critics of municipal politics expect at least as many more. Three of the retiring aldermen have yet to decide whether they will stand again.

The School Board field, outside of the slate posted by the Victoria Ratepayers' Association, is fairly vacant up to the present. Kenneth Ferguson, trustee for the last two years, will not run for another term, he announced, and J. L. Beckwith is still undecided. Both Trustees J. S. McMillan and Victor Emery are seeking re-election.

The slate of the Ratepayers' Association which lacks one council candidate and one for the school board will be completed to-morrow night at a meeting in the Chamber of Commerce at 8 o'clock. Frank Higgins, K.C., will be the chairman and the candidates now chosen will address the gathering.

MEN ESCAPE, BOAT PLUNGES OVER NIAGARA

Believed Occupants of Craft Swam to Shore as Cruiser Drifted to Falls

Canadian Press

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 12.—An eighteen-foot cabin cruiser was swept over the Horseshoe Falls shortly after 8 a.m. to-day. Two men who were occupants of the craft are believed to have escaped by donning life preservers and swimming to shore when the boat was about a quarter mile above the brink of the cataract.

The craft was first sighted drifting toward the crest of the falls by a motorist. Police investigated and located the boat about 100 feet out from shore and about an eighth of a mile from the falls brink. Two life preservers were found under a tree on shore and this led to the belief the occupants of the craft had escaped.

Yesterday a boat, similar in appearance to the one that took the Falls plunge to-day, was anchored in Chip-pawa Creek and two men were repairing the motor. Police believe they got the boat started, that engine trouble again developed and that they threw the anchor when they found the boat drifting toward the cataract. The anchor apparently dragged and the men donned life preservers and swam to shore.

Former Rotor Ship Wrecked and Eleven of Crew Rescued

When disaster overtook the Baden Baden several days ago in the Caribbean Sea the vessel was an auxiliary schooner, two ordinary masts standing in place of the big rotors shown in the above picture, which was taken, while the craft was experimenting with Flettner's invention.

Bahia, Canal Zone, Nov. 12.—The captain of the United States submarine tender Swan reported to-day his crew had picked up the crew of the wrecked schooner Baden Baden with eleven men living, five dead and the captain badly injured.

The Swan took the lifeboat to tow after the survivors and their dead had been taken aboard and at last reports was proceeding to Coco Solo.

Captain Wabli, the message said, was suffering from serious injuries to his spine.

The Swan gave its position as about forty miles northwest of Cartagena, Colombia.

Presumably the rescued men were the castaways sighted early in the week by a mail plane pilot as he flew over the Caribbean Sea.

Airplanes and ships had been searching the sea ever since. The Swan went out three days ago.

Its radio message, reporting discovery of the eleven men alive, reached here this morning. (Concluded on Page 2)

Australia Wants Early Discussion of Trade

Government Intimates Other Countries' Treaty Offers Cannot Be Held Up Until July Date For Empire Sessions in Ottawa

Canadian Press Cable via Reuter's

Canberra, Australia, Nov. 12.—Hon. F. M. Forde, Minister of Trade and Customs, to-day said Australia would enter into trade treaties with foreign countries unless the Empire Economic Conference were held at the earliest possible moment.

Mr. Forde's statement came after a conference with Premier Scullin, and was said to be a reflection of feeling throughout Australia that the Commonwealth had suffered for its loyalty to the principle of empire preference.

The government, it was said, does not accept the view that postponement of the Empire Economic Conference beyond February is necessary. (In discussions so far the middle of next July has been mentioned as the probable time of the start of the conference.)

"Representations already have been made to the Commonwealth by other countries which buy largely Australian products for trade treaties promising advantages to Australia," Mr. Forde said.

"Consideration of these representations," he continued, "was deferred pending the result of the Imperial Conference which was to have been held in Ottawa during August, 1931. In the meantime no decision has been made by the Commonwealth Government."

It is hoped, however, that the conference will be held at the earliest possible moment. Otherwise the pressing representations of other countries which buy largely from Australia cannot be postponed indefinitely.

TREATIES MENTIONED

"South Africa," he pointed out, "already has negotiated treaties with Germany and other foreign countries. Canada also has a treaty with France and her relations with other foreign countries are governed largely by that treaty. A few more such treaties will be submitted, soon by the government, rendered more difficult the consummation of treaty agreements within the empire."

"Procrastination about the date of the Economic Conference will cause difficulties militating against the conclusion of a favorable agreement with Great Britain," he concluded.

The president said the proposed budget would not necessitate eliminating a single man from the present navy personnel. No fighting ships would be decommissioned, he reported, although "the rotation plan will be continued."

LIQUOR IN FINLAND

Helsinki, Finland, Nov. 12.—A report declaring Finland's prohibition law to be insupportable and recommending beer and wines be legalized will be submitted, soon by the government commission appointed last winter to study the problem.

AUSTRALIA PUTS BARS UP AGAINST RUSSIAN LUMBER

Canadian Press Cable via Reuter's

Canberra, Australia, Nov. 12.—Hon. F. M. Forde, Minister of Trade and Customs, to-day announced the government had drawn up an anti-dumping duty regulation which would be imposed at once on lumber coming from the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics.

Ottawa, Nov. 12.—Considerable progress is reported to have been made in the negotiation of a trade agreement between Canada and South Africa. It is understood South Africa is willing to conclude an agreement. Negotiations have not, however, reached a point where an announcement can be made.

BENNETT IS TO VISIT LONDON

Expected Premier Will There Discuss Date For Empire Economic Conference

Canadian Press

Ottawa, Nov. 12.—The coming Imperial Economic Conference here may be discussed shortly in London between Premier Bennett and leaders of the new National Government of Great Britain. On his proposed holiday trip—his first in three years—Mr. Bennett, it is understood, will likely visit England. The presence of Mr. Bennett in London, it is thought, will result in discussions in which preliminaries for the conference will be taken.

While there has been no definite announcement yet, the Prime Minister will probably arrive in England the latter part of next week. The likelihood is that Mr. Bennett will sail early Saturday morning aboard the liner Aquitania from New York. He will probably return to Canada in three weeks.

DISCUSSION OF DATE

The desire of the Prime Minister for an early meeting of the Imperial Economic Conference, postponed from August 12 last, was indicated in the statement he issued the day following the return of the National Government in Great Britain. He stated that the Canadian government would propose to the various governments of the empire that the conference meet in Ottawa "at the earliest possible date." Great Britain has accepted the invitation for an early meeting, while other governments of the empire have shown a sympathetic attitude.

FEBRUARY OR JULY

The date of the conference is one that probably will be discussed by Mr. Bennett in London. Premier MacDonald in his Guildhall speech a few nights ago, suggested July. Through Hon. F. M. Forde, Minister of Trade and Customs, Australia, has intimated it would be more acceptable to have the conference here in February.

Charges Against Alleged Communists Expected to Go to Jury To-night

By Jack Hamilton, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toronto, Nov. 12.—The defence fired its final salvo in the case of Tim Buck and seven others when the trial was resumed here this morning. Hugh John Macdonald, defence counsel, was addressing the jury on behalf of his clients when court adjourned for luncheon, and it appeared the decision would rest with the jury before night-fall. Norman Somerville, K.C., prosecutor, was to speak, followed by Mr. Justice Wright, presiding, the jury then to retire to consider its verdict.

SAYS EVIDENCE LACKING

In his address, Mr. Macdonald declared there was no evidence the Communist Party of Canada was an unlawful one. In all the years there had been no evidence the party had tried to overthrow the government of Canada or change existing systems by the use of force and violence.

The Empress of Asia and the steamship Berlingier were the first to reach the scene. Several other British warships previously ordered to the minesweeper's assistance.

GRAIN STARTS TO MOVE INTO OGDEN POINT

Cars To-day at Point Ellice For Local Elevator; Wheat Pool Official Here

Between forty and fifty cars of grain from the prairies were to-day at the C.N.R. terminal at Point Ellice, and to-morrow morning will commence to roll into the elevator at Ogden Point, according to an announcement made this morning. Joseph Bennett, superintendent of the Alberta Wheat Pool Elevators, arrived in Victoria to-day from Vancouver and will supervise the commencement of operations.

The grain now at Point Ellice will be brought through the inner harbor by barge and shunted on rail from the ferry slip at Ogden Point to the elevator. Extra hands have been employed to handle the grain there.

A barge of eighteen or twenty carloads of grain is expected to leave Port Mann this evening and go to Ogden Point direct, arriving there tomorrow morning. The grain at Point Ellice to-day came by way of Patricia Bay, crossing the Gulf from Port Mann by the ferry barge Canora and coming in from the Bay over Canadian National lines.

Mr. Bennett said this morning that it will take about seven weeks to fill the Ogden Point elevator to capacity. There is room for 1,600,000 bushels in the big bins. Grain will arrive here practically every day during that time.

According to Mr. Bennett, his company is diverting grain to Victoria and Prince Rupert to relieve the situation in Vancouver, where all storage space is at present being taxed owing to abnormal peak created by open weather conditions on the prairies and the sharp rise in wheat prices. The Prince Rupert elevator has a capacity of about 1,250,000 bushels, which is materially to the total space available on the Coast.

In discussing the possibility of a blockade at Coos Bay, Mr. Bennett said he discounted the possibility of any serious situation arising.

Wellington, New Zealand, Nov. 12.—Premier G. W. Forbes and his National Government will face the people in a general election to be held December 2. Parliament was dissolved yesterday and the date of the election, which has been postponed by the national emergency, was set. Maori elections will be held a day earlier.

Like Premier Macdonald in Great Britain, Premier Forbes will ask the people to give him and his ministry a "doctor's mandate." It is expected the United (Liberal) and Reform parties will go to the polls as a coalition. After the last election those two parties had a combined total of fifty seats.

TWO GERMANS AWARDED NOBEL CHEMISTRY PRIZE

Dr. F. Bergius and Professor Bosch Share Money For 1931

Canadian Press

Stockholm, Sweden, Nov. 12.—Dr. Frederick Bergius and Prof. K. Bosch of Ludwigshafen, two German scientists, will share the 1931 Nobel Prize in Chemistry, it was announced to-day.

The 1931 prize for physics is not to be awarded this year.

Dr. Bergius, one of the world's most famous synthetic chemists, made gasoline out of cheap coal so successfully it has been marketed in German filling stations for several years.

He used high pressure and intense heat, two of the creative factors in nature's slow outdoor laboratory, producing them in great machines. But his principal chemical trick was the substitution of hydrogen for air.

Dr. Bergius showed the chemical world some of the fundamental processes whereby machines could be made to do in a few hours the step which nature required thousands of years to make in converting plant products into coal. He created a little coal out of wood.

GIRL SAVED FOUR CHILDREN IN HOUSE FIRE

Family of Mr. and Mrs. J. Ovington Had Narrow Escape at Shawnigan Lake

Special to The Times
Shawnigan Lake, Nov. 12.—A tragedy was narrowly averted early Sunday when fire totally destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Ovington.
Five children, the eldest ten years old, were alone in the house and asleep. The cracking of the fire awakened the eldest girl, who with rare presence of mind, got all the others out unharmed.
Mr. Ovington, who is night engineer at the plant of the Shawnigan Lumber Company, left home at 11 o'clock. Mrs. Ovington accompanying him. Before leaving they were careful to see that the fire was out in the stove, and the cause is still unexplained, although it seems to have started in the roof. Mr. Luckovich, who resides some distance away on the Silver Mine trail, noticed the fire and hastened by car to the scene. Arriving, he found the children safe, but the house a total loss.
The family is being established in a house on the Mill Bay Road, and the community is taking a hand in giving them a fresh start.

LONGING FOR SUCCESS
"I am sure you will join me," Sir Arthur stated, "in praying that the next disarmament conference is a success, that it succeeds in bringing about an honest and universal reduction in the killing and wounding power of arms. It will do no good in fact it would have the opposite effect if one nation disarms honestly and others do not. Disarmament must be honest, must be mutual, must be universal."
"Thirteen years have gone by and how great has been our disillusionment," said the principal of McGill University. "It is true we have tried to do something which we hoped would prevent war. For ten years we have had the League of Nations, whose definite purpose is the promotion of peace and the settlement of international controversy by peaceful means. All of the great nations, with the exception of Russia and the United States, have pledged their word to support these laudable aims."
"We have our Locarno and Washington pacts and we have the Kellogg-Briand treaty, which registers the determination of more than sixty countries, including the United States and Russia, to condemn recourse to war for the solution of controversies and renounces it as an instrument of national policy," he went on.

MANCHURIA SITUATION

"The history of the past has taught us, and the history of the present confirms most emphatically, that these solemn engagements are easily disregarded. Witness what is now happening in Manchuria between China and Japan. Whatever the irritation by China—and I have no doubt it has been great—Japan has broken her pledge by her war-like actions in the last month. With inexorable efficiency she has defied the League of Nations, which seems to be as powerless as it has been weak."

LAPOINTE'S ADDRESS

Canadian Press
Montreal, Nov. 12.—Declaring nations must organize for peace in the same way they have organized in the past for war, Hon. Ernest Lapointe, former Minister of Justice of Canada, yesterday evening made an appeal for disarmament in a Remembrance Day address. Calling for support for the coming disarmament conference at Geneva, Mr. Lapointe declared that the furtherance of measures for peace was a solemn duty to those who gave their lives in the Great War.

ARMAMENTS EXTRAORDINARY

"Does it not cast a sad reflection on the statesmanship and moral structure of the world that twelve years after the Treaty of Versailles the great powers are actually spending more on armaments than in 1914 and that mad race is still continuing, more expensive and more extravagant?" he asked. "Those heavy expenditures are perhaps the most serious obstacle to the world recovery."
"I firmly believe the world is moving forward, not backward, and that it is possible for the moral forces everywhere to join together in bonds of mutual understanding, where respect for each other, love of justice and the determination to do what is right will be the governing rule in the future."

ABLE LEADERS AT WORK

"The actual work of the League began ten years ago," he said. "During at least seven years the ablest and most earnest minds have devoted their full energies and their most intensive efforts to the fulfilment of this pledge. Substantial progress has been made, and if world conditions permit, a disarmament conference of the world's nations will meet in February. It will be confronted with the almost insuperable task of committing each nation to substantial reduction of its armaments."
Sir Robert declared that insofar as the League might seem to have failed in an almost impossible task, "failure was imminent in the conditions. The League's ten years were but a moment in the world's history. Can you expect in a moment the root of an evil abiding throughout the centuries?" he asked. "Do you know of any human agency that could have achieved more than the League has accomplished? If not, let us be spared of cynicism."

Danger of More Clashes In Tientsin

By W. V. PENNELL

Tientsin, Nov. 12.—More trouble and possibly serious fighting are expected to-night because an arrangement by which the Japanese agreed to permit a search of the neutral zone bordering their concession by Chinese police had broken down.
The Chinese were to search for rebels who participated in rioting early in the week, but when 100 police entered the neutral zone they were turned back by a Japanese patrol, which charged the Chinese and tried to extend their operations into the Japanese concession.
Now each side is accusing the other of having broken the agreement.

DIFFICULTIES GROW
The United States government believes the Japanese occupation originally was a military coup executed without backing of Tokyo. It is conceded it was far easier for the Japanese soldiers to go in Manchuria than it now is for them to get out.
U.S. ACTION
Indications of interest by the United States in the League's efforts to bring about peace in Manchuria to-day helped a little to dispel the gloom in which League quarters have been submerged for several days.
A Chinese statement, which was contained in an urgent communication yesterday to the League, said Japanese troops had advanced twenty kilometers along the road to Taitshar and that the Chinese were retreating under bomb attacks and shellfire.
Dr. Sze, Chinese spokesman, presented before the League to-day charging that the Japanese military authorities were working systematically in Manchuria to displace local Chinese authorities and set up groups under Japanese control.
By James F. Howe, Associated Press Staff Correspondent—Copyright
Tokio, Nov. 12.—Reports from Mukden of a fierce battle yesterday evening near Kungshing in which fifty Chinese were killed, including one woman, and 300 wounded, and reports that fifteen carloads of Russian arms and ammunition have arrived at Anganchi, Manchuria, for the Chinese general Mah Chan-shan, reached here to-day as the government planned to dispatch a large fresh body of troops on Saturday.
A report was also received from Geneva saying the League of Nations might propose an international police patrol in Manchuria to permit Japanese evacuation, but this was not seriously by authorities here.
THE NEW CHINESE ATTACK IN THE direction of Mukden is believed to indicate a renewed drive of the army of General Mah Chan-shan will be made in the Nonni Bridge area. General Mah's army is said to number 30,000 men.

No definite statement of the exact strength of the new force of Japanese troops which is to be sent from Hiroaki Saturday was given, but it was understood more than a brigade would go and that, in addition to replacing the Korean brigade, it would bring the total number of Japanese troops in Manchuria to 16,000.
Official circles here looked for serious developments in northern Manchuria. Japanese troops in the Nonni River district, including the reserves at Taonan, it was said, number less than 2,000. There are faced by 30,000 Chinese concentrated south of Anganchi, who were reported to be threatening a counter attack.
TIME FACTOR
Fear was expressed here lest the Japanese might be compelled to strike first and advance on Taitshar in order to avoid being overwhelmed by weight of numbers if the Chinese were permitted to take the initiative.
Apprehension was also increased by the reports of the purported impending new Chinese thrust from Chinchow, which it was believed would be "noted toward preventing the Japanese from removing their troops from one front to another."
Tokio, Nov. 12.—The War Office intelligence department reported to-day that it had "fairly reliable evidence" from various sources that fifteen carloads of Russian arms and ammunition had arrived at Anganchi over the Chinese Eastern Railway for the Chinese General, Mah Chan-shan.
The intelligence bureau also said it had further information that 2,000 troops of an "international Communist army" consisting of Russians, Koreans and Chinese had arrived at Taitshar.
That force, it said, was believed to have come "from the direction of the Amur river," and to have organized the Manchurian district south of Hingochan.
JAPANESE TO DEPART
Shanghai, Nov. 12.—Japanese consuls at Chungking, Chengtu and Chengchow, China, told Mamoru Shigemitsu, Japanese Minister to China, to-day that anti-Japanese sentiment had grown so strong in their areas it would be necessary to evacuate all Japanese citizens and close the consulates.
The three consuls came here at the request of the minister to make a report on conditions in their territories. They said feeling against the Japanese was running high throughout the interior of the country.

MANY IN SEARCH PARTY
The search parties off the Colombia coast yesterday included six United States naval seaplanes from Cocco Solo, two passenger planes on regular runs and one a rescue plane from Barranquilla.
The Colombian gunboat Boyaca also stood by. The Norwegian steamship Geisha, the British steamship Casanare and the Dutch steamship Costa Rica all criss-crossed the locality yesterday without finding the lifeboat.
Captain Frank Ormsee, Pan-American Airways pilot, reported sighting the drifting group Monday afternoon. To him there appeared to be thirteen persons. N. C. Nelson, Canal Zone sealer, was a passenger with Ormsee, said he believed fifteen were in the party and that two of them were women.
The Baden Baden, of late an auxiliary schooner owned by Hans Lau of San Jose, Costa Rica, was the old Flettner rotor ship, that strange hybrid which caused a great deal of interest in 1906 when the inventor took it across the Atlantic from Germany to New York.
Anton Flettner made the craft over by building in two forty-five-foot towers, nine feet in diameter, which rotated when they caught the wind on their smooth surface and served the same purpose as the old time square sails of the clipper ship.
The tall yellow towers, regulated by a steering device from the bridge aft, could work up to 120 revolutions a minute. On the 6,100-mile voyage from Hamburg to New York five years ago the vessel used its locomotive equipment on 70 per cent of the distance, covering the rest by a single Diesel-driven propeller. The crossing took more than a month.

NOV. 11 SILENCE IS OBSERVED BY MILLIONS

Remembrance Day Marked By Services and Other Events Throughout Canada

Ottawa, Nov. 12.—Throughout Canada, in all communities, from the remotest hamlets to the largest cities, the people paused for two minutes yesterday in the rush of their activities to pay silent tribute to the dead and to those who served, marking the thirtieth anniversary of the armistice that ended the Great War.

Proclaimed by Parliament as a holiday, the occasion was marked at many points in Canada by a complete closing of government, civil and business activities, while in others only a partial observance of the holiday was carried out. But the observance of the eleventh hour was general from the Yukon and the British Columbia Coast to the Maritime Provinces, and thousands of war memorials throughout the Dominion were scenes of touching services of tribute.

The national ceremony was observed with due solemnity here, the service being held on Parliament Hill. It was attended by the Governor-General, the Prime Minister, members of the cabinet and notables prominent in the national, civil and ecclesiastical life of the country. Throughout the whole Dominion mild weather generally prevailed for the late fall contributed a warmth unusual for this period of the year, and everywhere the proceedings were carried out in an atmosphere reminiscent more of the late summer. This was particularly so in eastern Canada. The weather reports show it was mostly fair and cool in the western provinces.

Throughout the Maritime Provinces the observance of Remembrance Day as a holiday was general, while color full scenes were witnessed at the cenotaphs in the cities, where brightly uniformed men marched again to the strains of martial music.

Although the observance of the holiday was not general in Quebec, the services of tribute to those who served were carried out in all the larger cities and on the ships in the St. Lawrence River. The Montreal Stock Exchange was closed and all official business suspended. Historic Dominion Square was the scene of a memorial service in the metropolis, where the brilliantly uniformed troops of military district No. 4 were ranked about the cenotaph. The Quebec Legislature, now in session, did not observe the holiday, but the members took part in the 11 o'clock services which were carried out in the Ancient Capital.

IN ONTARIO
Observance of the holiday was not general in Ontario, but many of the towns and cities closed public offices, schools and business houses. The period of silence was strictly observed, however, in Toronto traffic halted, the city streets were hushed, and the busy streets, Veterans of the Great War and earlier war marched again, and all the branches of the service were represented in the memorial services.

In Manitoba and on the prairies the day was marked by services at the various cenotaphs, and in many cases the holiday was fully observed. Business in Regina, Saskatoon and Calgary was completely suspended. In Winnipeg and Edmonton all activities stopped for two minutes at 11 o'clock and electrical power was shut off.

Saskatchewan cities observed the holiday under special orders from the Governor-General. M. A. MacPherson, who declared the law creating the holiday must be enforced. Solemnity of the day was fittingly observed up and down the Pacific Coast from Victoria and Prince Rupert and in the Yukon, where services were held in Whitehorse and Dawson City. The holiday was general in most cities.

NO TALKING IN OTTAWA
The memorial events in Ottawa were attended by a crowd estimated at nearly 50,000. The grassy slopes of Parliament Hill blazed with brilliant uniforms of the various regiments of the Ottawa district, paraded together for the first time in eleven years. In addition there was a full battalion of war veterans, multi-clad, but their breasts shone with emblems of their service and valor.

As the sonorous notes of the clock in the Peace Tower sounded the last stroke at 11 o'clock a gun at the rear of the East Block thundered the signal that brought silence to the vast throng. For two minutes, while a brilliant autumn sun shone down from a cloudless sky, the entire city was wrapped in a reverent hush. A second gun announced the termination of the period of silence and a massed choir, accompanied by a band, sang "O Canada." That was followed by "Prelude in C Minor" by the massed bands. Then the plaintive Scotch lament, "Flowers of the Forest," by the pipers of the Ottawa Highlanders.

Scarlet clad buglers of the Governor-General's force, standing on the steps of the Parliament Buildings, sounded the "Last Post," after which the massed choir rendered "O Valiant Heart." Then, from high up the Peace Tower, sounded by trumpeters of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, came the sweet notes of "Bevelite," "O God, Our Help in Ages Past" and "Land of Hope and Glory," rendered by the massed choir. After the ceremony, and the Governor-General laid the first wreath at the base of the cenotaph. This was the commencement of a parade of those with wreaths until the tall white shaft was almost buried in laurel and poppies. Premier Bennett deposited a wreath on behalf of the Dominion. Lady Borden, wife of Canada's war-time Premier, placed a wreath in memory of the "Unknown Soldier."

Supreme Court Observed Silence For Two Minutes

Ottawa, Nov. 12.—The Supreme Court of Canada continued its regular sessions yesterday, but the two minutes silence was strikingly observed by the judges and entire staff. At the approach of the eleventh hour members of the court staff and all employees in the building gathered in the courtroom where the chief justice, Rt. Hon. P. A. Anglin, was presiding. At the sound of the gun fired on Parliament Hill the entire assembly stood in silence for two minutes, after which counsel resumed their pleadings.

U.S. NAVY CUTS SHIPS OFF LIST

Seventeen Vessels to Be Struck Off; Asiatic Fleet Chiefly Affected

Washington, Nov. 12.—The United States Navy yesterday announced reorganization of its Asiatic Fleet and the realignment will result in a reduction of numerical strength. The Caribbean squadron will also be changed somewhat, according to the announcement by Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations, the move being described as one for efficiency and economy.

Seventeen vessels are to be taken out of commission and about 1,000 enlisted men and 100 officers are to be displaced to cut expenses some $4,000,000.

The navy will de-commission the old cruiser Rochester, the aircraft tender Jason, six destroyers and nine submarines. Most of these will come from the Asiatic Fleet, which is to be materially curtailed. The changes will go into effect gradually after January 1.

The old gunboats Sacramento and Asheville will go to the Orient. Those shallow-draft boats are considered most suitable for Chinese rivers.

CONFERENCES AND NATIONS EASE STRESS

Washington, Nov. 12.—President Hoover yesterday warned the nations of the world peace "cannot be had by resolution and injunction alone."

Dedicating the new Marble Temple, memorializing the Great War, the President in an Armistice Day speech said the world today was more heavily armed than before the war, and confidence should be re-established "not alone by each nation in its own institutions, but among nations."

"The backwash of forces loosened by the Great War," he said, "has grown until during the last two years the stability of many nations has been greatly shaken."

"This, with their fears and discouragement for the future, weakened confidence throughout the whole financial and economic world. That loss of confidence added enormously to unemployment on a national scale, and from it all we have been passing through an emergency second only to the Great War."

THROUGH CONFERENCES
The President said action to relieve nations from economic stress required no treaties or commitments and pointed out progress was being made by "frank, sincere and direct personal conferences on mutual problems between heads of states throughout the world. It has been made by similar action among the financial, industrial and social institutions of the world."

The President's speech was delivered a few minutes after he had stood with bowed head before the tomb of this country's Unknown Soldier in the cemetery of the nation's war heroes.

BRITAIN PAYS TRIBUTE ON ARMISTICE DAY

London, Nov. 12.—The British Empire yesterday observed the thirtieth anniversary of the signing of the Armistice and cessation of hostilities of the Great War as a day of remembrance. In London's Whitehall tens of thousands stood bareheaded around the Cenotaph, monument to Great Britain's 900,000 who fell in the conflict. The Queen and Prince of Wales attended the ceremony and observed the traditional two-minute silence at home to the war dead.

The Queen left Buckingham Palace in a closed carriage and rode almost in a closed carriage to the Home Office, where she watched the ceremony at the Cenotaph from a window. The King, at the last moment, decided not to attend the ceremony and the blowing and conditions were similar to those of three years ago when he contracted a cold which led to his serious illness. Yesterday he observed the two-minute silence in his own sitting-room.

The great square around St. Paul's Cathedral was as densely packed as the approaches to the Cenotaph. In Whitehall, Down by the Mansion House, official residence of the Lord Mayor, and the Royal Exchange, similar spectacles were presented of thousands of silent men and women, the men doffing their hats at the first note of the eleventh hour, which came simultaneously with the sound of guns fired at distant points to give the time to those in the suburbs.

Nanaimo

Nanaimo, Nov. 12.—The work committee of the Nanaimo Rotary Club has decided to change the name of the Hobby Fair which in future will be known as the Nanaimo Hobby Fair and School Exhibition. It is believed that by getting all schools in the district to enter the competitions, the fair could be enlarged by 40 per cent. The school trustees have signified their intention to co-operate with the Rotarians as far as possible with the scheme.

The South Wellington Court Jubilee Foresters celebrated their fourth anniversary Friday evening. Thirty juvenile members of the Nanaimo court, Friday of the week, journeyed to South Wellington, accompanied by their officers, to assist in the celebration. Two new members were initiated, followed by supper, when a birthday cake was cut. The evening was spent in games, music and contests interspersed with speeches by Brother N. Wright, Joseph Sutton and G. Tippet.

Pacific Milk Should Be Used
Following is Pacific Milk's promised whipped cream recipe:
1. Have Pacific Milk cool. 2. Whip rapidly 2 minutes. 3. Add fresh lemon juice freely and whip until cream is thick—about 3 or 4 minutes. 4. Fold in slowly 1 teaspoon each separately, of granulated sugar and vanilla. Serve.

Be sure (1) to whip 2 minutes before adding lemon juice; (2) to use granulated sugar; (3) to fold in sugar and flavoring with spoon, NOT whisker.

LIFE'S GREATEST ASSET IS GOOD HEALTH

Have you lost this asset? If so, read what prominent citizens wish to tell you!

ASTOUNDING RECOVERIES OF FATHER, MOTHER AND DAUGHTER

Mr. Geo. Harris, Herbarist, Calgary.

My husband suffered with a very bad rheumatic leg, which was twice the normal size. He went to various doctors, trying various medicines and elastic bandages, but nothing did him any good. One doctor put him on a diet, which reduced him to skin and bone, but still his leg was the same. It was so big that it burst the side of his boot out. However, he decided to try your medicine as a last resource, which I am so thankful he did, for after two days' treatment he was able to get a night's sleep. Thereafter he used to walk the house with the pain of it. After two weeks the swelling began to go down, and by the time he got through his first bottle he was nearly normal and he began to pick up and put weight on. He says he thinks Harris' Wonder Health Restorer saved him from being crippled.

I suffered terribly myself with kidney trouble, having two operations in two years for stones which formed in the kidneys. Nobody knows the terrible pain and agony I went through, only those who have been through it. I felt so weak and lifeless, and after seeing what your Health Restorer did for my husband, I decided to give it a trial. However, I am thankful I did, as it stopped all the trouble in my stomach, and I was able to eat and drink anything, where before I was too scared to. I've never been troubled with my kidneys since taking it, and everyone says how well I look now. I did a year before. I've gained in weight and never felt better for some years.

I also gave it to my little daughter when she was getting over mumps and measles in the summer of last year, and it picked her up just fine.

I have recommended this medicine to quite a number of friends and people I know, and each one says the same, how well they felt after even the first bottle. My home will never be without a bottle of Harris' Wonder Health Restorer, as long as I can get it, and I wish many people suffering with rheumatism or kidney, or indigestion, or influenza, or any other ailment, would try it.

Yours very truly,
GEO. HARRIS & SON

READ WHAT RETIRED HOSPITAL MATRON WITH 30 YEARS' EXPERIENCE HAS TO SAY

Dear Sir:—It is with much pleasure I send you a report of our progression back to good health after taking Harris' Wonder Health Restorer for eight weeks. Ten weeks ago I had an examination and my doctor said I was on the verge of Pernicious Anemia, and could do nothing for me. I took after I saw your advertisement and as I am a great believer in herbs I started taking your medicine. My husband also took your remedy as he has been a terribly sick man for years with Bronchitis, Asthma and General Debility, and had tried many other treatments but none gave permanent relief.

In both cases the results are marvelous, as our health is returning to its former state. We still continue taking your treatment and would not be without it. I am a retired hospital matron, having nursed for thirty years. I am passing the good news alone to all my friends who are so astonished at the improvement noticed.

You may use this letter in any way you wish as I shall be only too pleased if it will give you and your friends a word from my heart for the wonderful work you are doing for humanity.

Gratefully yours,
MRS. MARY E. CAMPBELL

2630 Portland St., via New Westminster, B.C. Phone Carlton 364-N2.

Herewith are submitted a few from thousands of testimonials bearing witness to the marvelous work this great herbal remedy has done for suffering humanity. These statements are from prominent reliable people whose statements will stand the strictest investigation. The statements are published but are very sincere and are only too glad to tell you of their cases. Where there is another remedy that can prove such marvelous results?

Your attention is called to the fact that in many instances the remedy accomplished successful results where sickness had been standing for years; in others it was taken as a last resource after everything else had failed; in still others when the only treatment recommended by physicians was an operation. Don't give up hope until you have tried Harris' Wonder Health Restorer. It is only natural that it will be more easily overcome if the trouble is caught in its early stages.

The price of Harris' Wonder Health Restorer is $3.00 per bottle (contents 8 fluid ounces) or Three Bottles for $8.00. Included with every bottle of Harris' Wonder Health Restorer is a separate bottle of Harris' Thymus Bitter Tonic. Harris' Wonder Health Restorer in Canadian form, bottles of price $6.00 per box straight. Bitter Tonic included free with every box. SEND FOR A FREE BOOKLET OF TESTIMONIALS Included free with every bottle of Harris' Wonder Health Restorer is a separate bottle of Harris' Thymus Bitter Tonic, a preparation which keeps the bowels in perfect order and enables them to throw off impurities by the natural channels, which greatly helps Harris' Wonder Health Restorer while it is doing its restorative work. Harris' Thymus Bitter Tonic is also made entirely from the juices of herbs.

Dear Sir: It gives me great pleasure to testify to the marvelous benefit obtained through taking Harris' Wonder Health Restorer. I have suffered for over thirty years with my stomach and went under an operation for bursted Appendix and Peritonitis. This gave me relief for time, but as my stomach was in a very weak condition I had taken four bottles of Harris' Wonder Health Restorer. I then began to have a lot of pain in my head and neck which the doctor said was Neuritis. I suffered for eight years and felt I could not hold out any longer. I dragged myself to bed at night and had to be very careful what I ate. I am glad to say that after taking my second bottle I began to sleep better and my food stayed down and life seemed worth living after all. I am now a new woman.

I feel grateful for what it did for me and shall be glad to recommend Harris' Wonder Health Restorer to anyone. Trusting this letter will be of service to many other sufferers. Yours sincerely,

YELLOW TOPAZ SAID TO INSPIRE FRIENDLINESS

By K. D'ORSAY

THE WORD "topaz" comes from "topazion," meaning "to attract." The brown topaz thus got its name because the island where it was found hundreds of years ago was difficult to locate.

Perhaps this association may have something to do with the greatest difficulty that those who have this birthstone may encounter. For if you were born in November, under the astrological sign of Sagittarius, you will probably find that you cannot determine upon a fixed objective. You may not be able to definitely decide what you want from life. If 1931 has found you vacillating and squandering your force and energy, do not spend unhappy years trying to find new paths. Make up your mind just exactly what you want, and your natural self-confidence and self-reliance should help you attain it.

Your chief characteristic are insight and feeling, with a prophetic and intuitive sense. Frank, generous and sensitive, you are a lover of order—also of freedom. But if conditions arise beyond your control, do not let them irritate or disillusion you. Make another try and you will probably find that these barriers were but necessary incentives to carry on.

If you are a lover of the outdoors, as your horoscope indicates, you should make a hobby of some sport, particularly riding. Do not let your gambling spirit carry you away to excesses. Practice moderation at all times, as trying to do too many things at once may spoil the success of one.

Your birthstone is the most popular yellow stone in the gem world. Contrary to the general idea, not all yellow stones are topaz—nor all topaz yellow. Topaz is usually colorless or very pale in tint, with the yellow hues varying in degree. The true topaz takes an excellent and dazzling polish.

Topaz is comparatively inexpensive for both small and large pieces of jewelry. It is especially unusual in that, unlike other stones, it can be obtained in almost any desirable size.

The topaz is said to inspire friendship; your natural ability to make friends and keep them, makes you doubly fortunate in this respect. Those born in your own month and those under the sign of Leo (July-July) should be very congenial to you.

HEADACHES caused by ACID

Acidity haunts its victims like a shadow. No appetite, what you do eat disagrees, causes flatulence and makes you sluggish. Work is an effort. Before night, a headache.

Do you know what is wrong? An acid-soaked system! Too many acid foods. But you need not diet your way out of this difficulty. Take a tablespoonful or two of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

From the hour you relieve that acid condition you will feel like another person. Every spoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia will neutralize many times as much acid. Take it when stomach nerves are over-stimulated through worry, or excitement; when everything ferments in your stomach, and waste matter is poisoning that bloodstream or whenever the bowels are clogged. Phillips' Milk of Magnesia has a gentle, laxative action. It is ever so much better for one than the harsh purgatives that upset the stomach or weaken the bowel muscles. An occasional dose of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia is all that is necessary to avoid those periodical attacks of sluggishness so apt to occur with any person who does not get a great deal of physical exercise.

Phillips' Milk of Magnesia is sold at drug stores everywhere in the Dominion in 50c bottles. Be sure to say "Phillips' Milk of Magnesia" when you buy. Then you're sure of getting the product that doctors prescribe.

The ideal dentifrice for clean teeth and healthy gums is Phillips' Dental Magnesia, a superior toothpaste that safeguards against acid-mouth. (Made in Canada).

Psychologist Claims Vivacious Girl Good at Party But Poor Life Partner

Hamilton, N.Y., Nov. 12.—If collegiate students take the advice of Dr. Donald A. Laird, psychologist, they will pick the "vicious" instead of the "vicious" party girl. On the eve of house parties, said Dr. Laird, addressing members of his classes, the "vicious" party girl, alert type of girl, is likely to make an unusually attractive party guest, but is likely, on the other hand, to be a poor life partner.

"The vicious personality type," he said, "is associated with, if not due to, unusual activity of the thyroid gland, and in five or ten years after the house party there are good chances that this gland, after excessive functioning, may become disordered, whereupon the formerly vivacious house party companion may be changed into an entirely different type that is sluggish, slow and uninteresting."

The change in personality behavior, with its resulting ill effect on marital compatibility, he said, is not so likely to occur "in the case of the listless and dumb debutante."

After constant rehearsal, "The Ghost Bird," the mystery comedy by Neil E. Schaffner, is ready for presentation tonight at 8 o'clock in the Shrine auditorium under the direction of Mrs. Hugh Nixon and the auspices of the Orange County lodges. The scene is set in an old farmhouse near New York and the cast follows:

Andalusia Anderson, hired girl, Marjorie Siddall; Will Belmont, a guest, Gordon Pike; Tobias Tulliver, a butler, Douglas Nixon; Mrs. Dora, housekeeper, Thelma Schroeder; Carl Thomas, a guest, Denis Humphries; Catherine Belmont, a guest, Janie Williams; Philip Graham, host, Don Pike; Brad Buckhart, detective, Harry Eke; Crest.

There, dear—after the big armistice day parade I knew you'd be hungry, so I thought I'd fix a grand surprise for you to remind you of your army days!

Fashions Still Remain on the Gold Standard

New York, Nov. 12.—There is no danger of the fashion world going off the gold standard. In this season of balls and opera and late afternoon functions bits of gold glitter from the tops of heads to the tips of toes. Even for street wear, gilded belts and buckles, gilt buttoned gloves and gilded quills are being worn.

One of the newest little turbans has a gold tinsel tassel that sets flapping on top. Dull kid pumps are enlivened with tiny golden buckles and flowers for the coat lapel are of gold kid. A number of afternoon dresses have tops and sleeves, sashes, or capes of gold lame. The lame dress is an important complement to the perfect wardrobe. Patterned with flowers of the richer shades of green, red, blue or even black, these shimmering gowns catch admiring eyes wherever they are worn.

Dark crepe dresses also have puff sleeves and tops richly embroidered with golden threads. One dress with a dark-brown silk crepe skirt has a blouse of aquamarine blue flat crepe encrusted with gold metal pieces. A sheer chiffon kerchief of the same shade has a deep border of gold thread stripes.

SEA CADET SAVES GIRL

John Kirkendale Hero of Rescue From Drowning in Inner Harbor

Violet Chong, twelve-year-old Chinese girl, was saved from drowning in the Inner Harbor yesterday morning by John Kirkendale, a young Navy League cadet, and son of Capt. George Kirkendale, harbor master. The rescue was performed as the crowd was dispersing from the memorial service at the Cenotaph in Parliament Square. The little Chinese girl slipped on the sloping apron of the seaplane float at the causeway and plunged into the water, gumbots which she was dragging her down. Young Kirkendale, hearing her scream, acted without hesitation, jumping into a nearby boat and paddled to the spot where the girl was struggling. After a great effort he dragged her into the boat and returned to the landing. John was a modest hero. He escaped from an admiring throng which had collected, and his identity was learned from other cadets in the vicinity. His father was informed of the feat by a friend over the telephone while the boy sat at table eating his lunch.

THOUSANDS AT SERVICE HERE FOR SOLDIERS

Largest Throng in Years Attended Inspiring Ceremony at War Memorial Yesterday

Base of Monument Covered With Poppy Wreaths and Garden Flowers

Honoring the memory of Victorians who made the supreme sacrifice in the Great War, approximately 5,000 persons attended the Remembrance Day ceremony held at the Cenotaph in Parliament Square yesterday morning, thirteen years after the signing of the Armistice in Europe. It was one of the largest crowds of people ever to attend a war memorial service in Victoria. Representatives of church and state stood bareheaded alongside mothers and wives who gave their dear ones and small children who did not remember their fathers but nevertheless turned out to honor their memories.

All morning, under leaden skies, tributes to the heroic dead were laid on the base of the memorial. They ran the gamut from huge wreaths of laurel and poppy and bronzed maple leaves to tiny sprays of flowers picked in small gardens earlier in the day. But all had the same significance and gave comfort to hundreds remembering the old adage "our dear dead are never dead until we have forgotten them." In front of the memorial stood the huge cross of red poppies which was donated by the citizens during Poppy Day on Saturday last. It stood on one of the street corners and as persons bought poppies they donated them to the cross.

SIMPLE SERVICE
The service itself was simple and was attended by representatives of many organizations in their uniforms of war days. Veterans, 300 strong, all wearing medals marched together to the memorial for the service. They received applause from the crowds as they marched over the Causeway. A detachment of men from the Esquimalt Canadian Mounted Police, the Boy Scouts, the Girl Guides and the Sea Cadets were also represented in the parade to the memorial, which was headed by the band of the Fifth B.C. Coast Brigade, and the pipe band of the Canadian Scottish. The veterans marched under command of General Sir Percy Lake and Major P. T. Stern.

On each corner of the Cenotaph stood a sentry with arms reversed. Standard bearers of the I.O.D.E. stood on one side of the memorial during the service. Brigadier Sutherland Brown, officer commanding Military District No. 14, represented. Lieut. Governor Johnston and placed a magnificent wreath of maple leaves and poppies on the pylon. Premier Tolmie represented the government; Mayor Anson, the city; Commander Ian Agnew, the Royal Canadian Navy, and Archdeacon E. P. Laycock the Ministerial Association.

The service opened with "O Canada," following which Percival's "Tribute to Fallen Heroes" was read. The Last Post was sounded and at 11 o'clock the two minutes' silence was held, the vast throng bowing heads and nothing breaking the stillness but a stifled sob. It was an impressive sight and one which will long be remembered. The sounding of the Bell, the community singing of "Abide With Me" and the National Anthem brought the service to a close. Rev. C. F. Chapman, chaplain of the military and naval forces, presided at the prayers.

MANY TRIBUTES
Besides the large number of private individuals who laid tributes at the foot of the fighting soldier, the following organizations were also represented: The Vancouver and Island branch of the Navy League, the Victoria Women's Institute, the B.C. Coast Brigade, the Women's Auxiliary of the Pro Patria Branch, the Kineman Club, the Spanish Conservative Association, the Municipal Chapter I.O.D.E., the Canadian Daughters' League, Assembly No. 2, the district officer commanding and all ranks at the Esquimalt Garrison, the Navy League Chapter I.O.D.E., the Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia, the Bishop of Co., the Women's Auxiliary to the T.V.A., the Britannia Branch of the Canadian Legion, the Valentine Harvey-Beaumont Boys' Chapter I.O.D.E., the Business and Professional Women's Club, the Native Sons of Canada, the Gyro Club, the Victoria Unit No. 12 of the Army and Navy Veterans in Canada, the Red Cross Workshop, the Local Association of Girl Guides, the Women's Canadian Club, the Women's Auxiliary to the Army and Navy Veterans, the Provincial Department of

When Your Cough Hangs On, Mix This at Home

For coughs due to colds, the best remedy that money could buy can easily be mixed at home. It saves money and gives you the most reliable, quick-acting medicine you ever used. The way it takes hold of the stubborn cough, giving immediate relief, is astonishing.

Any drugstore can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a 16 oz. bottle, and fill up with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. It's no trouble at all to mix, and when you once use it, you will never be without it. Keeps perfect and tastes good—children really like it. It is surprising how quickly this loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and soothes the inflamed membranes. At the same time, part of the medicine is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes, and helps the system throw off the whole trouble. Even those severe coughs which follow cold epidemics, are promptly ended.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of severe coughs and bronchial irritations. Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

A Statement about Deliveries of Marconi "INTERNATIONAL" Short-Long Wave Radio

... So Great a Success that Marconi's
New Factory is working Day and Night

You may be one of a great many people who have ordered a new Marconi Short-Long Wave International but can't get immediate delivery. If you are, please accept our regrets. It is hard on both of us and we assure you that we will have your set ready for you shortly.

The International is the result of long years of Marconi experience and experimental work based on Marconi world-wide short-wave experience. When we finally succeeded this fall in completing the short-long wave receiver we knew we had a great new achievement in radio. What we did not know was the quickness with which the public would demand this achievement when sponsored by Marconi.

We know this now because our entire original production of the new International was sold within a few days of its announcement. The orders which have since come in are more than enough to establish the International as the outstanding radio success of the year—smashing all our sales records and expectations.

Today our factory is working day and night producing

Short-Long Wave International sets with the extreme care which they require.

If you will leave your order with one of our dealers anywhere we promise you that it will be filled and although there will, unfortunately, be some delay, we can tell you that the Short-Long Wave International is worth waiting for. We worked on it for a long time before we announced it and public acceptance has made it a leader in the radio field.

Our Engineering department has just completed the development of an 11 Tube Deluxe International Short and Long Wave Receiver which will be on display Nov. 20. The Deluxe International will contain all the features of the International plus automatic volume control, plus two Marconi pentode tubes in push-pull, plus an 11" electro-dynamic speaker, plus a distinctively finer cabinet. We ask you to study the Marconi line described below, then visit a Marconi dealer and decide which of these machines best suits your requirements.

DUNWELL PLANT BEING INSTALLED AT BRIDGE RIVER

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Nov. 12.—Development of mines in the Bridge River district is proceeding at a satisfactory pace, according to officials of companies interested in development of properties there. The milling machinery purchased by the Bralorne interests, from the Dunwell mines, for the Lorne Gold mill is rapidly being installed. Work is being pushed to get the heavier pieces of equipment into the property before the weather would prevent the moving.

The installation of the automatic hydro-electric equipment, which will give the company an independent source of power, is proceeding rapidly. The plant is located on the upper reaches of Cagwallader Creek. The equipment, capable of developing 430 h.p., was purchased by Bralorne from Cork-Province Mines Ltd., located at Zwicky. The plant is said to have originally cost $67,000.

Major J. C. Hartley, superintendent of operations of Lower Bridge River Placers, who is in town this week, states that operations have been delayed by about three weeks owing to unforeseen difficulties. The diesel engine developed a crooked shaft, which had to be sent to Vancouver for straightening.

A derrick and winch, capable of removing large boulders, a number of which have been encountered, is now on its way to the property. About 5,500 yards of material have been removed, and while a great proportion of the gravel was surface matter, Major Hartley brought down several sample bottles of coarse gold.

The present monitor is delivering a head of 165 pounds pressure. In the spring when the river is higher and capable of carrying away greater quantities of tailings, a monitor capable of delivering 600 pounds pressure will be used.

ton Mallet, Somerset, rent free to anyone who will look after it.
The mansion, which dates from the time of Cromwell, stands amid an estate of 1,300 acres. It has twenty bedrooms, a fine billiard room, beautiful gardens and is within easy reach of good hunting, fishing and golf.

Lady Muriel Paget says that it is offered rent free as an economy measure. "We think it is better than closing it and leaving it to go to rack and ruin. Efforts to let it have been unsuccessful. Tenants would have to pay about $1,750 a year in rates and taxes, and would have to look after the place properly. It might be taken by more than one family and divided into flats. If no one suitable wants it on these terms, I am thinking of taking paying guests at, say, $25.50 a week, and looking after them myself."

Traveled 12,000 Miles to Observe Golden Wedding

In order to celebrate their golden wedding in Scotland, where they were married, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Green, formerly of Mount Florida, Glasgow, and now of Prince Albert, Saskatchewan, travelled altogether a distance of 12,000 miles.
The worthy old couple, who traveled to Scotland for their golden wedding, spent a night in the Central Hotel, Glasgow, to which they had adjourned after their wedding fifty years ago. Unknown to them, their suite of rooms was lavishly decorated with flowers by a number of their friends, and they were astonished to find that they had to pass through two lines of maids who had been let into the secret. Still greater was their astonishment to find their rooms a veritable bower of roses.
Next day they proceeded to Oban, whither they had gone to spend their honeymoon half a century ago.
On their departure for their home in Prince Albert, they received a cordial farewell from a host of friends who gathered at St. Enoch Station, Glasgow.

Mr. Green was formerly well known in Glasgow, being head of the Glasgow Fish Company, and was proprietor of a number of retail fish shops throughout the city. He was also the owner of the fish-buying steamer Albatross, which was in attendance on the herring fleet in Loch Fyne and the Firth of Clyde. He is now head of the Prince Albert Mineral Water Company and director of the Goudy Gum Company of Canada Limited, Montreal.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

HEALTHY BABY NEEDS NO TRAINING IN NATURAL ACTIVITIES

The "normal" baby is a mythical individual composed of averages. There is an average time for sitting up, standing, creeping, walking, teaching and talking; and the baby manages to accomplish all these activities at the same speed as thousands of other babies; he deserves to be called the normal baby.

A mother should be familiar with the general picture of normal development, for most mothers are inclined to anticipate activities and then worry when their babies fail to live up to expectations. If baby struggles to lift his heavy head from the pillow, mother props him up, cheerfully ignoring his slumping backbones and sure that she is not only pleasing him but also training him to sit up. She is usually just a lap ahead of him, hurrying him into his next stage of physical development. It is a keen disappointment to her if he falls behind any of the neighbor's children in these particulars.

MAY HARM BABY
This is always wasted effort, sometimes harmful to the baby. I don't advocate that a baby be left to lie like a lump on his bed or carriage all day, but—providing the bed were large enough—I doubt if that would be as disastrous to him as the mother's strenuous efforts to push his development. Babies do not have to be propped with pillows in order to learn how to sit up. In fact, when they have to be propped, they are not ready to sit up.

The baby of four months, with the health and strength that come from good feeding, can hold his own back as straight as a poker. He enjoys doing it for short periods, exulting in the new aspect of the world from this advantageous position. Let him hang onto the mother's hand and let her pull him up, while he sits, staring around. Then put him down again. That's enough sitting up for the small baby. To put him in a high chair and stuff pillows at his neck is to force him to sit in a position that is definitely fatiguing. All baby can do is to slump down and cry or fuss for the privilege of lying down.

NO PROPPING
At six or seven months his backbones will be strong enough to hold him up for longer periods without support. He should always be in a position to sit up, if he chooses, but free to lie down the moment the impulse seizes him. "No propping up" is an excellent rule to follow. Every other activity of the baby is dependent upon his physical well-being and his mental development. It takes both mental and physical health to spur on development. The failure to sit up, to walk and talk, can as often be traced to mental backwardness as it can to physical weakness.

URGENT NECESSARY
Obviously, the mother's part is to furnish the baby the type of diet which will contribute to his general well-being, and to let nature furnish its own impulse toward these natural activities. Babies don't have to be taught or trained to do any new thing. They are equipped by nature with the desire to do them, and, given the physical vigor and the mental equipment, nothing can hold them down. Mothers interested in having a general picture of baby's development the first year, will profit by the leaflet "Baby's Development in Sitting, Creeping and Walking." If you want a copy, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request to Mrs. Myrtle Meyer Eldred of the "Your Baby and Mine" department of this newspaper.

MAKES PLEA FOR POOR MOTHERS

Quebec Minister Says Women as Well as Unemployed Men Need Help

Canadian Press

Quebec, Nov. 12.—A plea for the mother, who, in times of economic distress, was often badly nourished, poorly dressed and in unheated and unsuitable lodgings, finding her physique deteriorating and the same fate awaiting those she nursed, was made Wednesday in the Quebec Legislature by Hon. A. David, provincial secretary.

Unemployed workmen deserved all possible sympathy and support as did also the sick, the orphaned and the aged, but care must be taken of the mothers of the province, the provincial secretary went on. He hoped his words would appeal to women who had means in these times of distress and were in position to aid their less fortunate sisters in their present time of trial.

WHEN TEETHING

makes HIM FUSSY

Teething time brings its troubles! For so often teeth cut through the tender gums in hot weather, when there is danger of digestive upset anyway.

One of the most important things you can do to make a teething baby comfortable, is to see that waste matter is carried off promptly and regularly.

For this, there's nothing like Castoria. It is made specially for the delicate needs of babies and children. It acts so gently, you can give it to young infants to relieve colic pains. Yet it is always effective—keeps older children well regulated. Castoria is a harmless vegetable preparation; it contains no harsh drugs, no narcotics.

When your baby is fretful and feverish with teething or a stomach disturbance, give a cleansing dose of Castoria to make him comfortable and happy. Children like the taste of genuine Castoria—never object to taking it. Be sure you get it with the name, Chas. H. Fletcher, on the package.

SOCIAL, PERSONAL AND HOME INTERESTS

Gems of Peril

by HAZEL ROSS HAILEY

"I haven't printed a line about you yet, have I?"

"Then, if that isn't the reason, Dirk said you had another—she turned several shades of pink in quick succession, but blurted it out nevertheless—'He said you were making up excuses for sticking around because you were in love with me.'"

"It didn't save Bowen."

"I don't say I'm not," he grunted, looking straight ahead.

"Oh, then—"

"Every blame word I've said is the truth, and you know it!" he cried bitterly. "And I'm tired of having my word doubted! I don't have to prove it. If you want to drop the matter, we'll drop it right here and now. It's entirely up to you. I hate the fly's sissard, but I can let my feelings go. You're the one most concerned."

"Odd that it had never occurred to Dirk just that way!"

"I'm going with you."

"Then come on."

Bowen's hotel was just around the corner in a side street, nearer Sixth than Fifth Avenue. It was not fashionable, but cozy and warm. Bowen bought some magazines at the lobby stand, and guided Mary gingerly by an elbow into a small, rose and gold room opening off the lobby.

An old woman in a soiled uniform crippled forward.

"Hello, Kate," Bowen greeted her. "Take care of this for me, will you? Till I come back."

Kate's eyes took in Mary from head to toe, with cynical interest.

"Shure I will," she promised, with enthusiasm. Kate had executed commissions for newspapers before. She would soon know what this beautiful damsel in distress had been up to. She had her love, perhaps. Whatever it was she'd been crying about, it thrilled Kate that she should know about it before it came out in tomorrow's papers.

Mary established herself on the shabby divan with Town and Tuttle and fell to reading, more to escape the old woman's questioning than anything else. Eventually the old soul hobbled away, muttering to herself about the uppityness of some people.

"When they get you in the jug, you'll talk my fine girl," she threatened through the wall.

Mary read on, oblivious of having offended. It was rather fun making out who was meant by the people referred to in those small, scandalous paragraphs in the gossip magazine. No names were mentioned, of course, but it was usually made plain enough. This, for instance:

"Why is it that we never appreciate what we have until it is another's? What child of great wealth—a bud of three seasons ago—is making rather a fool of herself over a childhood sweetheart whose devotion she was wont to ridicule until he took unto himself a fiancée? She is said to be relying heavily on the fact that the said fiancée is involved in a messy family scandal just now, which only the immense wealth and political pull of her sponsor has succeeded in quenching. A cold prick began to creep over Mary, and she sat upright on the couch, realizing suddenly that it must be herself who was meant! Her eyes flashed on:

"Both aspirants to the hand of the blue-blooded and personable young lawyer come to the post well equipped—the deb with this world's goods, and the fiancée with more than her share of looks. But if all this Dame Rumor whispers is true, and the lucky girl's elderly sponsor makes legal and binding his promise to make her his heir, then the scales will tilt heavily in her favor, and she will be able to match her rival million for million, with a few extra for good measure."

"A curious outcome, indeed, in view of the fact that the elderly protector's own wife died under mysterious circumstances recently. But Croesus will hear no ill of his Cinderella, so they say."

Mary hurried the magazine as far as she could throw it, and took a turn around the room to cool off. The impudence of it! The cowardliness! How dare people publish nasty innuendo of that sort, and expect to escape punishment? A suit for libel would be the very least they could expect; if she were a man, if she had a father, or a brother—or, she added miserably, a fiancé! Old fashioned horsewhipping was too good for the purveyors of such slander!

The alert Katie looked in, but withdrew in fright before that terrible young face. Mary was still pacing restlessly about the room, from picture to picture, staring at the ugly old landscapes with unseeing eyes, spelling out artists' names with moving lips, forgetting them as she uttered them. She was determined not to give way here, in this place, and add further fuel to the scandal.

Bowen should take her home at once, and the matter would be put before Mr. Jupiter. He would know what to do. Immense wealth and political pull! Indeed! If that were so, then they should be made to feel it!

But as her anger cooled she knew with sickening certainty that instead of showing it to Mr. Jupiter, she must keep it from him. After all, was it any more than had been common talk for weeks? Everyone knew it was a scoundrelous little sheet, everyone discounted its nasty little digs. She would only make matters worse if she made a row about it.

Bowen came hurrying in, his arms full of packages. In his left hand he held a whisky bottle carefully by the neck.

"Sorry to be so long," he explained. "But I had to buy some powder and some other junk. . . . I got a pretty good thumb print, I think, but the rest are not so good."

"What's the bottle for?" Mary asked, bewildered.

"Don't touch it!" He drew it away from her pointing finger. "It's his—"

"The fly's. He drinks a special brand. Mike sneaked it for me while Jack's back was turned. Let me get upstairs with it, quick, before something happens to it." He was laboring under strong excitement. "Can you imagine it? I been carrying this down the street like this. Afraid to wrap it up and smear the print. Wonder if it wasn't pinched." He started off, and Mary followed.

"Oh, don't leave me here! One more black mark on my reputation won't hurt. I'm going up with you." In the elevator she asked bitterly, "Did you know what was in that magazine you gave me?"

When they were out of hearing of an exotic-looking couple who went up in the elevator with them she told him. Bowen did not seem impressed.

"Oh, who reads that lousy little sheet anyway? A handful of nit-wits with most money than brains, who know it anyhow, and about a million repressed school teachers who won't understand it after they read it. Forsooth on!"

"Emily Ann Ruyther reads it," Mary said worriedly. "I suppose she's in the midst of a pink fit by now."

"Forget it. We'll have Emily Ann begging your pardon on bended knee before we're through."

He propped the door of his room open with a book, and laid his purchases out on the table, the precious bottle occupying top open space all its own. After that, they did not bother to talk. Bowen set to work and Mary watched, absorbed. The thumb print came up clearly, the others were, as he had said, too faint to be of much good.

Horoscope

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1931

Despite all tradition, there is to-day a dominant aspect that is favorable.

Although it is Friday the thirteenth and certain rather inauspicious signs are discernible, the day should be rather profitable.

Women should be lucky under the direction of the stars. It will not be unfortunate to accept an engagement, fine while this configuration continues, but it is well not to write love letters just yet, they are too sentimental.

There is a sign warning against the perils of signing one's name to contracts and legal documents unless complete assurance of their right nature is obtained.

Warning against mortgaging property at this time is stressed by those who read the future in the stars.

There is an aspect tending toward nervousness, impatience and irritability. It is well to practice self-discipline.

Parents should be patient dealing with children while this way prevails, for they may be highly emotional.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of much prosperity and happiness. They should not lend money or engage in any sort of secret enterprise.

Children born on this day probably will be exceedingly clever and intelligent. These subjects of Scorpio are usually possessed of great physical magnetism. They possess in formidable will and self-control as a general thing.

Those who have celebrated it as a birthday include Edwin Booth, 1833, famous actor.

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily's Picture

(By HOWARD R. GARIS)

After Uncle Wiggily and Mr. Twisty-tail had gone to the woods to drink some of Nurse Jane's famous ginger pop, and they had the adventure by spotting (or fooling) the Bear, one day the rabbit gentleman was sitting on the front porch of his bungalow.

It was a cool day, for winter was, as the saying has it, just around the corner, when Mrs. Longears came out and said:

"Are you going anywhere right away, Wiggily?"

"Not right away, but after awhile," answered the rabbit gentleman. "I am then going to look for an adventure. But why do you ask?"

"Oh, nothing special," replied Mrs. Longears, trying to seem indifferent like and not interested. "But she did not foot Uncle Wiggily; that is not very much."

"There is some secret here," whispered the rabbit gentleman to himself. "My wife is hiding something from me. But, knowing her as I do, I am sure there can be no harm in it. To the contrary it is sure to be quite jolly I think. So I will pretend I do not suspect her of putting up a little joke on me."

"Well," spoke the lady rabbit, still trying to look indifferent like and not interested, "if you don't have to hurry away to an adventure I wish you'd sit on the porch for a few minutes."

"Why?" asked Uncle Wiggily, trying to keep his pink nose from twinkling too fast. For if his wife saw that she might think he had guessed what she had in mind. "Why should I sit here for a few minutes?"

"Oh, nothing special," answered Mrs. Longears, again, and then she said: "Look at me, Wiggily."

Uncle Wiggily looked. He heard a clicking, clacking sound and a voice called out:

"I've got him!"

"Oh, so a Bad Chap is after me!" cried the rabbit. "But he shall never catch me. Come here, Police Dog! Quick!"

"Don't be silly!" laughed Mrs. Longears. "No Bad Chap is after you at all, Wiggily, my dear!"

"But I heard some one say 'I've got him!'

"I've got your picture," said the bunny gentleman.

"Yes, I said it," spoke a jolly voice and out from behind a bush stepped a dog gentleman carrying a black box which had three legs. "I got your picture, Uncle Wiggily. That's all I meant."

"My picture!" exclaimed the rabbit, in surprise.

"Yes," gently barked the dog. "Your wife wanted a picture of you, but she wanted one that looked natural, like a snapshot. She knew if you came to my shop and you knew I was taking your likeness, you would fidget and fuss and not look like yourself. So she hired me to come here and hide in the bushes. Then, when you went to sit out on the porch, and looked happy and free from care and worry, I snapped my camera and got your picture."

"Oh, so that's what you meant when you said you had got me, was that it?" asked the rabbit.

"Yes, that was it," answered the dog. "I think I got you looking just like yourself, a very natural pose. I hope you will like it."

"Well, I don't much care about having my picture taken," Uncle Wiggily said with a laugh. "But if my wife wants it—that's all right. And I would rather look natural than stiff and staring as if I saw a Bad Chap. Though at first, that's what I thought you were," he said to the dog photographer with a laugh.

"No, I'm not bad, except that, sometimes, my snapshots turn out badly," barked the dog. "However, I hope this of you, Uncle Wiggily, will be a good one. I'll trot back to my office now and make a few pictures of you and let you see how you like them."

"If they are good I'm going to have one framed to hang up on the wall," said Mrs. Longears.

"What wall?" asked her husband.

"The wall in the living-room of our bungalow," she said.

"Oh, no!" cried Uncle Wiggily. "I don't want to be looking at myself in a picture."

"Oh, yes," said his wife, firmly, and that settled it.

A few days later a big envelope came by mail to Mr. Longears.

"Oh, a picture of me!" joyfully cried his wife. "Let's open it and see how you look." So they opened the envelope and what they saw I shall tell you about to-morrow. Then the roller skates don't catch cold when they go out to rattle up and down the sidewalk on the pussy cat's feet you shall hear about Uncle Wiggily's lanky helper.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

Is the Duty of Every Girl to Help Her Parents if They Need It, and to Give to Them as Liberally As She Can, But She Should at Least Have the Satisfaction of Handling Her Own Money

WHAT RIGHT has a girl to the money she earns? That seems an absurd question to ask in these days when slavery has been abolished and onage is a crime for the law to deal with. Nevertheless, it is a burning issue in many households where the others consider that they are entitled to take their daughters' pay envelopes away from them, and the girls naturally believe that the laborer is worthy her hire.

Not long ago a capable and intelligent young woman was telling me with tears of her mother's unfairness to her about money.

"Ever since I have been at work my mother has demanded that I give her all that I make," she said, "but out some business I got and pay for my work that she didn't know about I have managed to save up a few hundred dollars. Somehow she found out about that, and she's trying to make me give it to her mother, a big, lazy loafer. She says she needs money to spend and girls don't."

"And because I refuse to do this my mother is perfectly furious with me and nags me about it until I am almost crazy. Yet I have practically supported the family ever since I was seventeen years old, and my brother has only not contributed anything but has lived on my earnings, and when he has said anything about his not working mother would berate me and want to know if I begrudged my poor brother food to eat and a place to sleep."

Nor is this an isolated case of a mother's point of view about her daughter's money. Every day I get dozens of letters from girls telling practically the same story about their mothers taking away from them every dollar of the money they have worked so hard for and then giving back only a few cents a day for lunch and carfare.

One can understand that there are still left mothers who cling to the idea of paganthood is a gift and that children are serfs who should labor to support those who thrust life upon them, but, curiously enough, this theory seems only to apply to girls. Mother thinks she has a right to enslave Mamie and Sadie, but not Johnny and Tommy. She considers that everything that Mamie and Sadie earn belongs to her, but Johnny and Tommy have a right to their own money.

There is never a question of taking the boys' salaries away from them and doing out lunch money and carfare to them. It is only the girls who must turn in their pay envelopes unopened and be thankful to get enough money back for a sandwich or an ice cream soda. If Johnny and Tommy pay a little board, mother brags all over the place about how they help, and she sees that they have their meals smoking hot just when they like them, and she washes and patches and presses their clothes and wouldn't dream of asking the poor dears to do any chores about the house when they come home tired at night.

But she would consider it perfectly outrageous for Mamie and Sadie to receive a specific sum toward the upkeep of the house and have the balance of their money for themselves. She demands everything they make and then expects them to help with the dinner and wash the dishes and not only care of their own clothes but lend a hand with brothers' mending and wing.

Why mothers expect so much more from their daughters than they do from their sons, goodness knows. But they do. And, furthermore, they take it all as no more than their due and are never as grateful or appreciative of what their daughters do for them as they are of what their sons do for them. If a son gives his mother a dress or a hat once a year she spends the balance of the twelve months bragging about it and displaying it to her friends and telling what a good and generous son he is, but she never says a word about the daughter who feeds and clothes and shelters her year in and year out.

Yet, of course, these mothers who rob their daughters so ruthlessly love them, and perhaps the excuse for their injustice is to be found in the fact that the wage-earning girl is still so new a figure that her parents have not adjusted themselves to her or accorded her her place in the family life. In a boy goes out into the world to stand on his own feet and become self-sustaining he becomes a free agent and may do what he pleases with his own. He is automatically emancipated from parental control.

But when a girl goes out into the world to make her living, her parents still think they have a right to control her and treat her as if she was a little child, and to take everything she makes away from her.

Of course, the excuse always is that mother knows so much better how to spend the money than Mamie and Sadie do, but that is ridiculous. Any girl who has intelligence enough to hold down a good job has sense enough to budget her earnings, and any girl who has made a dollar by pounding it out of a typewriter or standing on sking feet behind a counter can be trusted to throw it away. And, anyway, what she makes is hers, to do with as she pleases.

Of course, it is the duty of every girl to help her parents if they need it and to give to them as liberally as she can, but she should at least have the satisfaction of handling her own money and of being a benefactor to her family instead of a slave to it.

Nobody loves the family nannyst and makes a pet of it. Not even other.

Krakatoa's Mighty Blast

Rocks and lava thrown out by a volcano will build up a cone. Each time there is an explosion the height of the cone is likely to be increased; at that time the cone is blown away by heavy explosion.

A Volcano in Eruption

Deep holes dug for mines prove that the warmth of the earth increases the further down we go. A mile deep, it is so hot that no one would wish to remain there very long.

We have reason to believe that eight or ten miles down the rock is so hot that it is not solid, but melted. The pressure at such depths is so great that the hot rock probably does not flow around, being held in place as though it were solid.

At some parts of the earth's surface, melted rock is not so far down. It is pressed up through cracks in the hard rocks. Water sinks beneath the round and melts the melted rock. Then steam is formed. The steam pressure may be so great as to burst the surface covering. Up comes a loud of steam and melted rock—or lava.

NO USE TALKING—THOSE FIGHTING IRISH KNOW FOOTBALL! YOU CAN'T BEAT 'EM!

The Gumps—

JENNETTA IS IMPROVING AT LAST—HER HEALTH IS BETTER—WHILE BIM'S EYE GETS BLACKER—BUT TOM—SHE HAS NOT SEEN HIM—SHE WOULD LIKE TO HEAR HIS STORY ABOUT BIM'S EYE—SHE WAS SO PLEASED WHEN HE BROUGHT THOSE FLOWERS—THAT LITTLE ACT HAS GIVEN HER FRESH HOPE

ON MY! ON MY! HE HIT YOU AN AWFUL BLOW—DIDN'T HE? HOW BLACK IT'S GETTING—HAVE YOU SEEN A DOCTOR?

I DON'T NEED A DOCTOR—HE HASN'T HEARD THE LAST OF THIS YET—

HE CAUGHT ME WHEN I WASN'T EXPECTING IT—IF I HAD KNOWN THAT HE HAD THE LEAST INTENTION OF STRIKING ME—

SAY—I WOULD HAVE JUST HAULED OFF AND—

BIMBO! THE MIRROR—THAT MEANS BAD LUCK

Ella Cinders—

WELL, THAT SETTLES IT! WHEN SMYTHE VAN SMYTHE CALLS I'LL TELL HIM THAT I POSITIVELY CANNOT MARRY HIM—I WON'T BE SHAVED BY A MILLION DOLLARS—NOT FOR A MILLION DOLLARS! YOU CAN LEAD A HORSE TO WATER, BUT A GOLF BALL MUST BE DRIVEN!

I'D LIKE TO ASK YOU, ELLA—WHICH WOULD YOU PREFER, A HONEY-MOON TRIP TO NIAGARA, HONOLULU, YOSEMITE OR THE CONTINENT?

GOLLY, MR. SMYTHE VAN SMYTHE—ALL I CAN SAY IS THAT I APPRECIATE YOUR OFFER, BUT I REALLY CAN'T—

BUT ELLA, YOU MISUNDERSTOOD ME! I SIMPLY ASKED YOU THAT TO GET A WOMAN'S REACTION! YOU SEE, SINCE I'VE MADE A MILLION I FEEL FREE TO GO BACK TO WEST ORANGE AND PROPOSE TO MY OLD SWEET-HEART, DORIS RIGGLES! AND I WANTED TO HAVE A GOOD SALES ARGUMENT—

GOOD—CONGRATULATIONS!

SHE'S ONE GIRL WHO WOULD GO THROUGH ANYTHING FOR ME! AND SO WOULD A LOT OF OTHER GIRLS—INCLUDING THE MILLION DOLLARS

Well thank goodness, that clears up THAT!

Bringing Up Father—

OH, THAT CHEF COOKED CORNED BEEF AND CABBAGE YESTERDAY. I TOLD HIM TO COOK THE SAME DISHES FOR US THAT HE DID FOR THE SOCIAL LEADERS HE WORKED FOR BEFORE. I WONDER WHAT HELL HE'LL HAVE TO-DAY?

WHY DON'T YOU HAVE A TALK WITH HIM?

AH! THE MADAM IS RINGING FOR ME.

WHAT ARE WE GOING TO HAVE FOR DINNER?

CORNED BEEF AND CABBAGE, MA'AM.

YOU HAD THAT YESTERDAY?

I KNOW IT, BUT THE PEOPLE I WORKED FOR BEFORE ALWAYS HAD IT THE NEXT DAY, TOO.

Boots And Her Buddies—

THERE GONE TH' PROFESSOR! GEE, I FEEL SORRY FOR TH' POOR GUY

MESSE IN JAC DUMB, BUT... I THINK HE'S GETTIN' BLAMED FOR A LOTTA THINGS HE'S INNOCENT OF

SHOO SHOO SHOO

TRIBUTE PAID M. HUTCHISON FOR PIONEERING

Rotarians Told City Electrician Installed First Canadian Commercial Plant

Development of Electricity Since Faraday Reviewed By Chas. H. Ireland

Warm tribute to Matt. Hutchison, city electrician, as one of the few remaining pioneers of commercial electricity in North America and the dean of the Canadian electrical fraternity, was paid this afternoon by Charles H. Ireland, at the conclusion of an address before the Rotary Club on the development of electricity from the basic discoveries of Michael Faraday.

"Matt. Hutchison installed the second electric plant in service in Victoria when he erected the city's equipment in 1888. That plant was the first commercial electric generating station in Canada. Mr. Hutchison has seen the development of electricity from its humble beginnings until to-day it is one of the giants among the world's industries. He is a man that Victorians should be proud of," Mr. Ireland said.

The present age could be fittingly described as "The Day of Aladdin's Lamp," said Mr. Ireland. One hundred years ago last August, Faraday developed the first electric current. Seven weeks later Faraday made a copper disc rotate when close to a horseshoe magnet. All the electrical industry of to-day was founded on Faraday's two discoveries, although other men later developed those theories.

In 1849 the first steam driven electric generator was built and used to power an arc light in Edgelyote Lighthouse. EDISON'S CONTRIBUTION

It was not until 1878 that Thomas Edison developed a machine capable of giving power for lighting. He used incandescent lamps, a more efficient and attained greater safety, the machine being completed in 1879. Mr. Ireland told of Sir Charles Parsons' development of the steam turbine, enabling great advances to be made in development of power. In 1886 a machine developing 100 kilowatts was built at Niagara Falls. The new steam turbine-driven generators had an output of 150,000 kilowatts.

"Look around and see what Faraday gave thought and energy and power. Thousands of dollars are being spent daily in research, for much of which no end is yet in sight," he said, telling of experimental transmission of power by vacuum tubes and of the enormous voltages carried by modern power transmission lines.

When Dr. Steinmetz died two years ago he had been trying to transmit 1,000,000 volts, to-day experimental laboratories were using 3,000,000 volts. Much research work remained to be done, but the lines of study being investigated.

The latest type of electric locomotive was able to outpull two of the most powerful steam-driven engines, and modern generating plants were small compared to those of a few years ago, although possibly producing four times the energy.

Mr. Ireland also told of the marvelous electric eye now being adapted to commercial use to promote safety in mechanical operations.

VICTORIA HEADS POPPY SALES

Late Rush For Remembrance Flower Sends Total Up

"Victoria was far ahead of any other city in British Columbia in the quantity and value of poppies and wreaths disposed of," a representative of the Armistice Period Committee said this morning.

"This does not refer to the amount collected, particulars of which are not available for the province, but to the actual quantity and value of goods purchased from the Red Cross Workshop. More wreaths were sold during the last two days than in the previous two weeks. Victoria responded to the call on behalf of the poppy-makers, and sales in other parts of the province were stimulated by news of Victoria's final success.

The two days' effort to avert disaster resulted in success. Major Okeill said this morning that poppy-makers were assured of as much work in preparation for next Poppy Day as they had last year. Our thanks are extended to citizens who saved the situation, not only in Victoria but throughout the province by setting an example that others followed."

NANAIMO BOARD HEARS FOREMAN

"Need For a Highway Board in B.C." Subject Taken By Former Provincial Engineer

Nanaimo, Nov. 12.—Nanaimo Trade Board held their monthly meeting Tuesday evening in the Canadian Legion Hall, presided over by W. W. Mitchell, president. Reports were received from the harbor and fisheries committee in connection with accommodation for yachts and fishing boats. Mr. Mitchell informed the meeting that all improvements would be taken up by the city council, the city engineer and J. P. Forde, government engineer. An extensive coal report was made by R. R. Hindmarch, chairman of the coal committee.

Votes of thanks were accorded Messrs. R. R. Hindmarch, T. Graham, Cumberland, C. H. Dickie, M.P., and A. H. Hall, M.P., for their work in connection with the coal industry. After the regular business was transacted, the meeting resolved into a representative gathering of the different societies, who were guests of the Trade Board, to hear an address by A. E. Foreman, former government engineer, who gave a very interesting talk on the necessity of the Need for a Highway Board in B.C.

REVIVAL OF BUSINESS IS NOW IN SIGHT

Oscar K. Davis of Foreign Trade Council Pays Visit to City

Time to Seize Openings For Trade as Turn For Better Has Taken Place

Oscar K. Davis, secretary of National Foreign Trade Council since 1917, is authority for the statement that the present is the most opportune time for active investigation into openings for trade. He contends that the turn has taken place in a financial and business way and that the real revival is in sight.

Mr. Davis was in Victoria yesterday in the course of an organization tour of the Pacific Coast cities, preparatory to sailing for Honolulu to complete arrangements for next year's National Foreign Trade Council conference.

The world had reached a balanced state before the war in regard to consumption and production in agriculture, mineral output and industry, according to Mr. Davis.

This balanced state was completely upset by the war, which resulted in a general situation of world trade following the close of hostilities. It was difficult for business men to figure what was wrong and to correct it before the shock came.

DERIVE BENEFIT

The time for recovery with regard to trade has passed, in the opinion of Mr. Davis. The most successful business men now conferred and compared experiences each thereby deriving new information that was of benefit to him.

On the Pacific, Mr. Davis states, there is considerable to be gained in arriving at better understandings concerning international trade. The National Foreign Trade Council is concerned in bringing together leaders in business and creating a better understanding of each other.

With a view to making the Honolulu convention serve these ends, the National Foreign Trade Council is extending invitations to Canada, Australia, New Zealand, Japan, China and all other countries bordering on the Pacific, suggesting that delegates be named to join in the deliberations of this important conference.

TRADE UNDERSTANDING

Opportunities for arriving at a basis for better trade understanding will be unsurpassed, in the opinion of Mr. Davis, who feels that when business men actually sit down together and discuss the relations and the openings for trade, good is sure to follow.

Mr. Davis was last in Victoria when the National Foreign Trade Council met in conference here several years ago. He is a former newspaperman and is an author of note. He acted as special correspondent for the New York Sun and Harper's Weekly in the Philippine Islands during the Spanish-American war and in China during the Boxer rebellion. He was correspondent for the New York Herald with the First Japanese army in 1904 and Washington correspondent for The New York Times and Philadelphia Ledger from 1907 to 1912. In the World War he was special correspondent for The New York Times in Berlin. His publications include Dewey's capture of Manila.

Winnipeg, Nov. 12.—Police of British Columbia are co-operating with local police in a search for the slayers of Wong Sam, local Chinese business man, who was shot here by two unknown gunmen. Local officials now believe the slayers left the city and are hiding somewhere on the Pacific Coast.

An additional reward of $1,000 offered by the Chinese Nationalist League brings the total money offered for the slayers to $2,000. In addition to police activity, Vancouver headquarters of the Wom Sun Association, to which Wong Sam belonged, are in communication with the local branch in pursuing a search.

Wellington, N.Z., Nov. 12.—A manifesto issued on behalf of the National Government by Premier G. W. Forbes and Rt. Hon. J. G. Coates, Minister of Unemployment, to-day said the national income of New Zealand had shrunk by $150,000,000 during the last two years.

Fast Scottish Backfield Is Too Strong For Gunners

Highlanders and Bays Open Senior Rugby With Wins

Fifth Regiment Put Up Good Fight Against City Champions But Lose 11 to 0 in Feature Army Game at Royal Athletic; Lone Try by Bill Latta Gives Oarsmen Victory Over Oak Bay Wanderers at Oak Bay Park

Showing the same fight that lifted them to the senior city championship and a half interest in the provincial title last year, Canadian Scottish senior rugger opened the 1931 season with an 11 to 0 victory over the Fifth Regiment in the feature Remembrance Day match at the Royal Athletic Park yesterday afternoon. They were forced to battle all the way against the rugged Gunners, who never slowed up on the attack. As the Highlanders took their first step towards this season's pennant, the James Bay Athletic Association kept abreast with a 3 to 0 win over the Oak Bay Wanderers in a bitterly contested fixture at Oak Bay Park.

The Army game was played before one of the biggest crowds that has watched an athletic fixture in the park this year.

Highlanders showed a decided edge in the backfield, while the Gunners' scrum, led by George Warnock, put up a surprisingly good stand against the crack Scots pack.

PLAY FAIRLY GOOD

For an opening fixture, play was of a fairly high calibre. Passes were ragged at times, but several good three-quarter runs and kick plays were executed perfectly.

The Gunners settled down to an attack after Bryden had returned their opening kick-off.

Bernard, breaking from the scrum, started a nice three-quarter run to the Gunners' ground, all members of the backfield handling, but the Fifth returned on a pretty kick play.

Campbell Forbes missed a penalty kick in the Gunners' ground, but the Scots held for a five-yard scrum.

England kicked for a five-yard scrum, and the Gunners' scrum, led by George Warnock, put up a surprisingly good stand against the crack Scots pack.

Harold Englewood downed Bryden as he was trying to clear in the Scottish ground, and Warnock started a dangerous run that came to a halt inside the Highlanders' twenty-five. Robinson tried for goal on a penalty kick, but the ball went wide.

Bells returned the Scottish twenty-five kick and the Gunners kept on their attack.

Menderson made an opening at centre to start a fine three-quarter move, in which Normington, Hunnington and Turgoose combined to reach the Gunners' five-yard line. McInnes relieved with a kick to their own twenty-five.

HIGHLANDERS SCORE

On the next play Hunnington passed to Reg Wenman, who dummied through and drew out McInnes before giving the ball to Normington, who scored near the side line. Campbell Forbes missed the kick. The try came twenty-two minutes after the start of the game.

Normington ran back the Fifth's kick-off.

In a kicking exchange, McInnes, playing a steady game as full-back for the Gunners, sent the ball past midfield and the Fifth broke away to the Highlanders' twenty-five.

Wenman brought Englewood down on a line run as the half closed with the Gunners still pressing.

Both squads fought around mid-field following the interval, failing to get in any effective sorties.

Scottish finally worked down on short runs to the Gunners' twenty-five. Turgoose took the ball from the loose and punted short over McInnes' head. He followed up to take his own kick and somersaulted over a Fifth backfield man to roll on the ball across the line for the second try, ten minutes after half time.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE—

Sorry to hear that laryngitis has temporarily deprived you of the use of your voice, as I would like to hear how your experiences as a globe-trotter compare with mine. I was just telling the boys of the exciting time I once had with a gorilla, and how I maneuvered the beast into trying to grab me, with his huge arms around a tree trunk, and how I snapped a pair of handcuffs on him!

Cap Dexter is our official liar, up at the radio station! He tells of his travel thrills around the world, and he never has been out of the state, except once, on an elk's convention!

He has the major so burned, that he should suddenly regain his voice. Now!

England Picked As Country to Defeat In Davis Cup Tennis

Slower Ball and Softer Courts On the Continent Will Suit Play of Frey Perry and "Bunny" Austin, Declares Samuel Hardy, Captain of Last Year's U.S. Tennis Team; Wimbledon Tourney No Longer Ranks High Enough to Provide Preparation For Cup Matches

New York, Nov. 12.—The Wimbledon tennis championship, which once brought the unofficial world's title to the winner, no longer ranks high enough to provide the proper preparation for the Davis Cup matches, in the opinion of Samuel Hardy, New York business man who served as captain of the United States team which brought home the Wimbledon crown but left the Davis Cup in France.

Discussing the prospects for the 1932 cup campaign in the current issue of Tennis, official publication of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, Hardy says:

"I am very much opposed to sending the men to Wimbledon—not because of the change from grass to clay, but for two other reasons. First, the competition at Wimbledon is no longer of sufficiently high order to be of great benefit as practice among the Davis Cup squad. Second, because of the terrific strain to which the players are subjected for two entire weeks."

PICKS ENGLAND

Hardy picks England as the country to beat in the coming Davis Cup struggle and names Ellsworth Vines' sensational youngster from Pasadena, Cal., as the player around whom the American team should be built.

The different playing conditions in America and on the continent will serve as a handicap to America's young team, Hardy points out, while the slower ball and softer courts are well suited to the style of play of Fred Perry and H. W. "Bunny" Austin, British stars.

NEXT BEST

The consistency of Vines' play makes him the logical first choice and Frank Shields, Keith Gledhill and George Lott are the "next best bets." Sidney Wood, the Wimbledon champion, should defend that title, Hardy says, but "he should not be used next year in the Davis Cup nor should he be used again on an international team until he has demonstrated, by reaching the final of a national championship or some similar event, that he can play through a really important match without cracking."

Hardy says that the Davis Cup is a national championship or some similar event, that he can play through a really important match without cracking.

Vancouver "Rep" Rugger Defeat Varsity Fifteen

Vancouver, Nov. 12.—Vancouver "Reps" defeated University of British Columbia 11 to 6 in a stubbornly fought McKee Cup English Rugby encounter here yesterday. The collegians proved a big surprise and fought the more experienced all-stars at every turn.

The half-time score was 6 to 0 for the victors. One of the features was the scoring of a try by Roxborough, of the "Reps," after he had lost his pants when a tackle grasped him near the line. He kept going in his white "undies," and the try proved the winner.

"Penrod and Sam" Shows At The Capitol Theatre

Booth Tarkington's Famous Novel of Boyhood Days, With Splendid Cast of Young Favorites, Here Three Days

"Penrod and Sam," the first National production, featuring Leon Janney and Junior Coghlan, is opening at the Capitol Theatre to-day.
Booth Tarkington's famous story of boyhood days—with the shack on the vacant lot where the freckle-faced gang meets—Duke the dog—teacher—pa, ma and sis—Rod the bully—George the goody-good boy—the small black pals of Penrod—Herman and Verman are all in "Penrod and Sam."
Leon Janney—high in the ranks of the boy scouts—plays Penrod; Junior Coghlan is Sam—there are a host of other kids too—and grown-ups. In the cast are such favorites as Matt Moore, Dorothy Peterson, Zazu Pitts, Johnny Arthur, Charles Sellon, Wade Boteler, Helen Beaudine, Nestor Aber, Billy Lord, Margaret Marquie, Betty Graham, James Robinson and Robert Dandridge—to say nothing of the amazing dog—the same mutt, by the way, who played the part of Duke in the silent version of the picture nine years ago.

Canadian production of medicinal cod liver oil comes from three provinces. The combined production of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Quebec amounting to over 84,000 gallons in 1930.

"The Pay-off" Is Destined to Thrill Patrons; Marian Nixon Has Leading Female Role

"The Pay-off," Radio Pictures' drama which opened at the Playhouse Theatre to-day proves two things: That Lowell Sherman stands alone in his field, and that a story which smacks of the underworld, can, by skilful direction, lose its "crooked" flavor and become a dramatic masterpiece of devotion and sacrifice.

Sherman, who directed and played a leading role, has created an absorbing talking drama of a high-class crook. It does not idealize a genius for crime, but illustrates, incidentally to the plot, that crime can have no ideals. The idealism and love in the heart of the crook, portrayed by Sherman, provides a picture interesting, gripping in every scene and a climax that lingers in one's memory.

Hugh Trevor is a pleasing surprise in his first "heavy" role, while Marian Nixon and William Janney, two youngsters who become innocently involved

COMING TO COLISEUM

The make-up art, as practiced in the beauty salon of Paris, is revealed in Radio Pictures' drama, "Transgression," coming Saturday to the Coliseum Theatre.

Beautiful Kay Francis is transformed from a lovely, quiet little English housewife into a ravishing beauty. Not a detail of the intriguing operation is omitted, from the tinting of fingernails to the plucking of brows. One even sees how the beauty scientists of France beautify ears.

The setting used is a replica of a famous Parisian establishment.

COLISEUM THEATRE

Stock company playing is the best training for a motion picture career—but the greatest care should be taken in choosing a director.

This is the theory of Charles Starrett, leading man in the Coliseum Theatre feature "Fast and Loose," in which Miriam Hopkins and Frank Morgan are also featured.

Starrett worked for three years in Cincinnati and Indianapolis with Stewart Walker, considered one of the best stock company directors in the country. When he went to New York, he found immediate favor on Broadway, where he played in two productions, before going into moving pictures. He is now a featured player with Paramount.

PRETTY DANCES IN "ROBIN HOOD"

Morris Dance and Maypole Dance to Be Highlights of Local Offering This Month

An original touch will be given in the dance numbers of De Koven's opera "Robin Hood," by having the Morris dance performed by twelve youths. Instead of the usual Morris sticks, handkerchiefs will be used, this being an older custom. The dancing of these youths makes a very interesting bit of business in the first act.

Then there is a very colorful tent Maypole dance by eight girls, who weave the ribbons of the pole into a tent-like canopy, giving a delightful touch to the opening scene of the first act.

The opera is full of the most delightful music and will appeal to the popular taste for good rhythmic music and bright, humorous dialogue. Friday and Saturday, November 27 and 28, are the dates of the performance and already the public is showing a marked interest in this, the first opera of the season by the Victoria Operatic Society.

Howard's Fox production, "Transatlantic."

Rancher, grape grower, horticulturist, dog fancier, Edmund Lowe has plenty to occupy his time when his day's work—his labor of love—is over. He owns 1,200 acres in Santa Cruz mountains, and in his vineyard are vines that came from Spain in 1870.

Lowe grew up in San Jose, graduated at Santa Clara University at eighteen, taught there the next year—the youngest "prof" on the faculty.

Feeling suddenly dramatic, he dropped his faculty job, to develop his acting faculty. He got to Broadway and stayed six years. The pictures claimed him—and acclaimed him. "What Price Glory" cemented his fame, and his career since then has been a succession of successes, including "The Cock Eyed World," "Born Reckless," "Don't Bet on Women," "Scotland Yard" and "Women of All Nations."

Thirteen Men Have Narrow Escape When Tug Sinks In Pass

Crew Swims Through Icy Waters to Barge After Ss. Kyuquot Strikes Rock and Sinks Almost Immediately Off Ladysmith; Ss. Salvage King Now Raising Staunch Tugboat

The thirteen members of the crew of the Canadian Pacific tug Kyuquot had a narrow escape from drowning Tuesday at midnight when their craft crashed into the rocks on the northern tip of Galiano Island, almost in front of the lighthouse there, and in narrow Porlier Pass, which separates Galiano from Valdez Island, on the route from Vancouver to Nanaimo.

A swirling rip and tidal conditions not encountered before were blamed for the mishap. A few minutes after striking, the staunch tugboat began to sink and the men aboard were forced to dive into the sea and swim for the barge that the tug was towing. They immediately cut the tow line so that the barge would not also be pulled down.

The steamer Salvage King, of the Pacific Salvage Company of Victoria, left Victoria yesterday morning at 1:30 o'clock for the scene of the accident. She arrived alongside late yesterday afternoon and was joined during the night by the salvage tug Skookum and the Helix.

The Kyuquot is in dangerous waters owing to terrific tidal currents which sweep back and forth with each ebb and flow. Little chance of getting divers down temporarily to patch the holes in the hull, and the method of salvage will probably be the use of pontoons to float the sunken vessel to calmer and shallower water, where patches could be placed.

The Kyuquot, it is understood, lies in with its stern in forty feet of water, and the bow just above low water. The tidal currents are so strong it is believed the salvage company may remove the Salvage King from the job and handle the work from the smaller salvage boat Skookum No. 2 and Helix No. 2.

CREW ASLEEP
Most of the members of the crew were asleep at the time the Kyuquot struck the rock. The harsh impact immediately roused them, and hastily donning what clothes were around they rushed on deck. Five minutes later the ship was sinking, and the men were swimming through the water to the barge. The tide at the time was fortunately at its slackest or the swim might have proven fatal for some members of the crew. At times the tide rushes through the narrow pass at between seven and eight knots. Porlier is fifteen or twenty miles off Ladysmith and about 100 miles from Victoria by water. The crew was taken to Ladysmith by rescue boats yesterday and left in the evening for Vancouver. They are now aboard the tugboat Quail, which was hurriedly commissioned and which is taking the Kyuquot's place running between Vancouver and Nanaimo.

POWERFUL TUG
The Kyuquot is one of the most powerful deep-sea tugboats on the Coast. She was built by the British Admiralty during the war, and was designed especially for deep-sea towing. She has a fine turn of speed and was one of the few tugboats in British Columbia waters powerful enough to handle the Japanese freighter

Around the Docks

More than twelve hours ahead of schedule, the Nippon Yusen Kasei liner Shidzuka Maru docked at the Rietz piers yesterday evening at 8 o'clock from port in China and Japan. She proceeded to Seattle at 10 o'clock, after leaving here there were twelve passengers aboard, one, Ivan Sidoroff, a Russian, leaving the ship here. The Seattle passengers were Japanese, Russian, German, British and United States citizens. Capt. Takuro Ikeda, master of the ship, reported an average November passage from Yokohama, with a spell of rough weather in mid-ocean.

Bound for Victoria and Vancouver, the Kingsley Navigation Company's freighter Texada sailed from San Francisco yesterday, King Bros., local agents, were advised this morning. It is expected here late Saturday night with cargo for discharge at Victoria. She will berth at the Ogden Point piers.

There were 135 passengers in all classes aboard the Canadian Australasian liner Niagara when she sailed from the Rietz piers yesterday evening. Among them were Mrs. L. A. Fleischmann of New York City; S. D. Neill, a prominent wool shipper of New Zealand, and a large number of representatives of business houses of the Antipodes returning to their homes "down under" after visits to eastern Canada and the United States.

Well laden down with Victoria and Vancouver freight, the C.P.R. steamer Princess Maguinnah sailed from the Belleville Street docks yesterday evening at 11 o'clock for ports along the West Coast of Vancouver Island as far north as Port Alberni. A fair number of passengers, including business men and returning West Coast residents, sailed on the Maguinnah.

On Saturday evening at 6 o'clock the American Mail liner President Madison will sail for ports in Japan, China and the Philippine Islands. She will take out a good list of passengers. Admiralty during the war, and is due to arrive here from Seattle on her way to sea at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

On Tuesday or Wednesday of next week the liner President Madison will sail for ports in Japan, China and the Philippine Islands. She will take out a good list of passengers. Admiralty during the war, and is due to arrive here from Seattle on her way to sea at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

Delayed several hours in leaving San Francisco on Tuesday, it will be 5 o'clock to-morrow morning before the Pacific Steamship Company's liner, Ruth Alexander, docks at the Rietz piers from San Diego, Los Angeles and San Francisco. Capt. Frank Landstrom, master of the ship, this morning advised the local agent by wireless. The ship will clear for Seattle at 7 o'clock after the Victoria passengers have disembarked and cargo discharged.

RALPH BUDD GETS CHANGE

G.N. President Going to Eastern Railroad; W. P. Kenney Will Succeed Him

Seattle, Nov. 12.—Ralph Budd, for twelve years president of the Great Northern Railway, will, on January 1, become president of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railway. It was learned here to-day when he arrived with other officials of the Great Northern from Bieber, California, where they were present at the driving of a golden spike on new lines there Tuesday. It is expected W. P. Kenney will succeed Mr. Budd as president of the road.

Mr. Budd, President P. E. Williamson of the Burlington, President Harry Adams of the Western Pacific, and Arthur Curtis James, the new financial genius of the Western railroad world, left the party at Bieber. While they were southbound for San Francisco and the Kenney-Baker-Loring Chapman party was northbound to Seattle, announcement of the nationwide shuffling of railroad executives was released from Chicago.

Patrick E. Crowley is to retire as president of the New York Central. Mr. Crowley has spent forty-three of his sixty-eight years with the Central. Frederick E. Williamson, now president of the Burlington, is to take Crowley's place. Budd is to be advanced to the Burlington presidency. The completion of the Great Northern-western Pacific link lends new importance to the Burlington, which is in a position to get the eastern traffic along both lines, as well as serving as the gateway for both the Great Northern and Northern Pacific to Chicago.

Chicago dispatches also reported that Kenney was expected to succeed to the presidency of the Great Northern. This was definitely confirmed by Great Northern directors, as they arrived in Seattle yesterday.

During Budd's presidency the Great

Seventy-eight Ships Wait at Panama Canal

Balboa, Canal Zone, Nov. 12.—The Panama Canal was opened to ships of light draft yesterday and the first vessel, the Isabella, started through since a landslide blocked the Gaillard Cut on Saturday.

Seventy-eight ships at both ends of the canal will be permitted to pass through as quickly as possible, but must proceed cautiously and will use tugs instead of their own power. Dredges have removed dirt to a depth of twenty-eight feet and a width of 120 feet, but it is estimated that four days will be required to transit waiting vessels.

The steamer Santa Barbara started through but the transport Republica was forced to wait at Cristobal because she overdraws the Santa Barbara.

BAYCHIMO MAY BE TOTAL LOSS

Is Listing Badly in Ice Near Point Barrow, Members of Crew Say on Arrival South

Seattle, Nov. 12.—A 17,000-mile voyage which took her as far north as Point Barrow on the Arctic coast of Alaska, was completed here yesterday with the arrival of the coastguard cutter Northland.

The Northland brought three members of the crew of the steamship Baychimo, locked in the ice near Point Barrow, who arrived at Nome too late for the south on the steamship Victoria with others of the crew.

The three members of the Baychimo crew, George Wright, Duncan Robertson and Cecil R. Duffield, all of Vancouver, B.C., were taken to Nome by airplane. They said the Baychimo was badly listed in the ice and may be a total loss.

Harris Wives Return From Long Voyage

After a voyage of romance and adventure to the South Sea, in a sailing ship, two young women who visited Victoria early this year, arrived in San Francisco yesterday aboard their husbands' schooner Lottie E. Bennett, which loaded lumber at Chetumal in the spring. Bonnie and Billie Harris, who accompanied their husbands on their adventure will not remain at home in San Francisco, but intend to start out on another adventure before long. They declare they had a wonderful time.

According to word from San Francisco, the Lottie E. Bennett with all her lower sails set, swept gracefully through the Golden Gate, without the aid of a tug, sixty-five days from Suva, in the Fiji Islands.

The Harris brothers are sons of Capt. G. A. Harris, master of the coast liner Emma Alexander, a regular caller at Victoria. The Lottie Bennett sailed from Chetumal June 8, and visited many of the islands in the South Sea, leaving lumber from British Columbia and loading copra for the return trip to San Francisco.

MANY CRUISES ARE PLANNED THIS WINTER

Mediterranean, West Indies and South America to Be Visited

Montreal, Nov. 12.—An extensive winter cruise programme of twenty-seven cruises, including ten "millionaire" cruises to the West Indies, eight to ten days in duration, eleven cruises to the West Indies varying in length from four to twenty days, four cruises to the Mediterranean, one cruise to Mexico and South America and a cruise around the world, is announced to-day for the Cunard Line by Arthur Randles, general passenger manager of the line in Canada.

The Franconia will set sail on her annual around the world cruise on January 9, returning to New York on March 27 after having visited a large number of ports never visited by any other world-cruising liner.

Four cruises to the Mediterranean will commence with the sailing of the Mauretania from New York on December 18. She will be followed in January by the Transylvania. On February 4 and March 6 the Aquitania will make two cruises to the Mediterranean from New York.

The Samaria will make the Mexico-South America cruise of fifty-seven days. The Samaria will sail on February 6.

The West Indies cruises will be carried on by the Mauretania, Franconia, Aquitania, Scythia, California and Berengaria, commencing with the sailing of the Mauretania on November 18 and finishing with the Scythia when she sails from New York on April 16.

The "Millionaire" cruises will be handled by the Transylvania and the Caledonia. Both these ships will make the first of the cruises on December 24 and the Caledonia will make the last on April 22.

Besides all these cruises a regular weekly service will be maintained between New York and Bermuda with a call at Nassau, by the Scythia, Carinthia and Caledonia.

This cruise programme indicates the trend of the times for short holidays in the winter time to the sunny climes of the south and the bookings already indicates a most successful season.

BOARD OF TRADE SEEKS MEMBERS

In an effort to enlist the support of business men of the district in their activities, members of the Esquimalt Board of Trade, at a meeting on Tuesday evening, decided to launch a membership drive. The move was taken following the reading of a communication from the secretary of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce outlining methods in which the support of business leaders could be secured. The organization will send out mimeographed letters to the residents of Esquimalt and will follow with telephone calls requesting attendance at a special meeting in the parish hall on November 18.

The board also expressed its approval of the suggestion of the Vernon Board of Trade that boards of trade of British Columbia should hold a general assembly. Capt. R. P. Matheson was instructed to write to the Vernon board informing it of Esquimalt's interest in the proposal. A copy of all resolutions passed by the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, resulting from the recent goodwill tour on Vancouver Island, was received from the secretary of the Associated Boards of Trade of Vancouver Island.

ISLAND CITIES REMEMBER DAY OF ARMISTICE

Citizens of Duncan and Nanaimo Turn Out En-masse For Remembrance Services

All residents of Vancouver Island patriotically observed Remembrance Day when the anniversary of the Great War was marked by reverent services at various points. Services were held at practically every point of importance on the island.

Details of the observance of the Armistice at Duncan and Nanaimo are contained in the following dispatches:

Duncan, Nov. 12.—Over 1,000 people attended the service held in the Agricultural Hall, and at the War Memorial Cross on Remembrance Day, the thirtieth anniversary of the Armistice. The order of procession of the different organizations was "Canadian Legion, W.A. to the Legion, relatives of the Fallen, 62nd Field (How.) Battery, C.A.; "A" Company 2nd Battalion Canadian Scottish Regiment, Scouts, Guides, Cubs, Brownies, I.O.G.E., firemen, cadets, public and private schools, the congregation following.

The order of service in the hall was as follows: Prelude—Covitchan Orchestra Society, under the leadership of W. A. Wauchope; two minutes' silence; anthem "O Canada"; international prayer, Rev. E. M. Rolfe; Scripture reading, Rev. W. P. Burns; hymn "O God, Our Help in Ages Past"; memorial prayer, Ven. Archdeacon H. A. Collison, and hymn "The Supreme Sacrifice."

All then adjourned to the Cross, where a guard of honor stood under Sergeant A. Wilson of the Canadian Scottish. The procession was led by members of the Legion, then the Field Battery, Piper J. Low, the 10th Scottish, with their band in front, the W.A. to the Legion, etc. The service commenced with the placing of wreaths to fallen heroes, lament, "The Unknown Warrior," Piper J. Low, the Lord's Prayer, the "Last Post," Trumpeter V. Hodding, the Benediction, Ven. Archdeacon H. A. Collison, Revellie, God Save the King.

AT CUMBERLAND
Cumberland, Nov. 12.—Memorial services were held Sunday in commemoration of Armistice Day. At noon a service was held at the memorial arch by Rev. J. R. Hewitt, United Church, and the Rev. L. H. King, Anglican, when wreaths from various organizations were laid at the foot of the memorial. The lesson and prayers were read by Rev. T. L. Hays. Wreaths were presented by the Cumberland Branch, B.E.S.L., the city of Cumberland, the Cumberland board of school trustees, the Japanese association and St. George's United Church Sunday school.

In the evening members of the Cumberland Branch, B.E.S.L., and the Ladies' Auxiliary attended service at the Anglican Church.

AT NANAIMO

Nanaimo, Nov. 12.—Nanaimo turned out en masse to observe Remembrance Day. There was a feeling of thankfulness and reverence among those who were congregated at the Cenotaph. War veterans paraded at the Canadian Legion Hall at 9:45 a.m. and marched to the cenotaph, where wreaths were placed on the graves of departed comrades. The procession proceeded to the Cenotaph, where seats were provided for aged and infirm relatives of returned men. On arrival at the Cenotaph the parade was commanded by His Worship Mayor Hall. The Silver Cornet Band played the National Anthem, which was followed with prayers by Canon Hitchcock. The band then played the "Dead March" in "Saul," the congregation singing the hymn "O God, Our Help in Ages Past." A short address was given by Comrade Rev. J. P. Bunt, followed by the singing of "O Valiant Hearts," and concluding with the doxology and benediction. Wreaths were laid on the Cenotaph by officials of the Canadian Legion. Bugler Devlin sounded the "Last Post," and heads were bowed in two minutes' silence. The "Reveille" was then sounded and wreaths were placed on the Cenotaph by the Girl Guides and Scouts and many citizens. In the evening a banquet was held in the Malaspina Hotel, under the auspices of the Canadian Legion. During the evening a programme of music was given, those taking part being Mrs. O. D. Rober's, James Scates, M.M., Major and Maile, with Mrs. J. P. Newman and Maile. Short addresses were given by Major Corrothers, General McDonald, Capt. McKenzie and Dr. Mayhew. The banquet was followed by a dance at the Pygmy Hall.

"REQUIEM" IS FINELY SUNG

Splendid Performance of Brahms's Famous Work at Christ Church Cathedral

Large Gathering Hear Work For First Time in City; Soloists' Numbers Enjoyed

G. J. D.
Perhaps no greater musical appropriateness to the evening of Remembrance Day could be found than that of yesterday evening, when Brahms's "Requiem" was presented by the choir of Christ Church Cathedral, under the direction of Stanley Bulley, the cathedral organist. The occasion was marked in that the production of the famous work was heard for the first time in the city, and not only redounds to the choir's activities, but is one of to be included in the musical traditions of the city.

The work, completed in 1868, was written when Brahms was thirty-six years old. Always a deep thinker in music the "Requiem" is characteristic of his philosophy of life, his perpetual obsession by the idea of death, yet facing the problem bravely, he emerges the stronger in himself, with a message of Divine consolation for us. This consolation is beautifully expressed in the famous work.

It is divided into seven movements, the choruses, "Blest Are They That Mourn," "All Flesh Doth Perish," "How Lovely Are Thy Dwellings," "Blessed Are the Dead," and two solos: baritone, "Lord, Make Me To Know," and soprano solo, "Ye Who Now Sorrow," both with short choruses.

The two solos were taken by Mrs. Owen Goodman, soprano, and Dr. Harry Johns, baritone. Edward Parsons, organist of the Metropolitan United Church, was at the organ, and the orchestra (which included tympans) was composed almost wholly of well-known amateurs.

FINELY ACHIEVED

While at times there were symptoms of choral displeasure, and an ultra loudness of the diapasons of the organ, and of the string basses, on the whole the work was finely achieved, the orchestra, adding its part with lustrous effect, and finish. The performance was an astonishingly good first one, which left an impression of earnest endeavor, reflecting much praise upon Mr. Bulley.

CHORAL SINGING GOOD

The choral singing was quite good, though occasionally lacking in attack and precision, yet in a choir of comparatively small dimensions there were times when superlative climaxes were reached, especially in the passages "Death, Where Is Thy Sting?" and in the chorus, "Lord, Thou Art Worthy of Praise and Glory," the latter proving particularly thrilling in its dramatic unity.

THE SOLOISTS

Mrs. Owen Goodman in the soprano solo, "Ye Who Now Sorrow," impressed with the beauty of her voice, and in the significance of the words she imparted so well. There were beau-
